Snow At End, But Sub-Zero Cold Due

Winter returned with a vengeance to the Tri-State District today, blanketing the area with up to 5 inches of snow and tumbling temperatures to below zero in a sneak storm that glazed highways and forced suspension of classes in some rural schools.

The Ohio weatherman said it may be much colder tonight with a low of zero to 8 below likely, but only flurries for the snow outlook. Friday will continue very cold.

The new cold wave descended without warning — the forecast for Wednesday night was scattered snow flurries and a low of 17 above. It followed three days of relatively mild weather.

The district got below zero in the back-county areas and the downtown had 3 above after the storm roared into the Ohio Valley early last night.

High winds accompanied a driving rain early in the evening, snow began, then the cold front moved in. The skidding mercury created icy roads which soon were covered by the accumulating snow and driving conditions became hazardous.

Highway departments in Columbiana, Hancock and Beaver Counties sent crews out cindering early last night, then plows were attached as the howling wind caused heavy drifting.

Gaylord Zellers, county supervisor for the State Highway Department, said all 18 crews of the Leetonia garage were out early last night, working throughout the night on main roads, then turning to secondary routes.

He said there were traffic tieups on the Rogers Hill of Route 7 and on the Millvale Hill on Route 14-A near Salem until plows got to the drifted sections by working from both ends of the blocked stretches.

Main roads in the district were snow - covered and slippery in places and there was some drifting on north - south secondary roads, which were also slick, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Crews of the Columbiana County Highway Department at Lisbon were out this morning plowing and ashing roads. The crews were called out last night to work for some time, battling the storm and drifts, Dick Neill, supervisor, said.

The snow ranged from 3 to 5 inches. The Leetonia garage reported the heaviest fall, Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport recorded 4 inches and the Stratton Dam had 3 inches. All reported difficulty in measuring the snow accurately because of drifting.

The winds that accompanied the sudden storm were estimated at 25-mph. with gusts of 30 or more.

The temperature dropped sharply during the night. The downtown had 4 above at 6 a. m. and it went down another degree in an hour. Copeland reported one below and the Stratton Dam had 9 above. Unofficial below - zero readings were common in the rural areas.

All schools in Hancock County were closed. School officials said classes were suspended when word was received from the state road crews that the secondary roads were closed and the men would not be able to open them in time for the buses to get through.

Of the 8,400 students in the system, about 3,600 ride buses.

United Local Schools in Columbiana County also decided against opening this morning mainly because of road conditions.

All secondary roads in Hancock County were closed by drifts, according to the Pughtown Garage of the West Virginia State Road Commission.

One of the foremen said the primary roads can be traveled if chains are used. The main roads were kept open during the night by snow plows.

Crewmen said drifts of two to four feet were common. Crews were called out Wednesday night at 7 and remained on the job throughout the night.

The men still were working today and were to start on the secondary roads.

Alternate Route 22 at Weirton was closed during the night because of drifts.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol near Steubenville said the highways in Jefferson County are snow covered and slippery. No accidents were reported during the night, officers said. The highway crews spent the night spreading ashes and salt.

Pennsylvania State Police said roads in Beaver and Allegheny Counties were slippery.

Route 22 near the Allegheny - Washington line, about four miles west of Imperial, was closed most of the night because of a crash in which a loaded steel truck overturned and struck a car, the Carnegie barracks reported.

There were no serious injuries, state police said, but coils of steel were dumped on the highway causing it to be closed to traffic after the mishap at 11 p. m.

The highway was opened to one-lane traffic this morning.

The Beaver Falls barracks said it had no reports of accidents.

Grand Jury Praises FBI For Raid At Jockey Club

The Federal Court Grand Jury, which indicted 13 men on gambling charges Wednesday at Wheeling, commended federal agents for coming into West Virginia and taking "care of a matter we evidently could not take care of ourselves."

"They certainly have done a wonderful job for our country and for West Virginia," John Bashaw of Wheeling, jury foreman, told Judge Charles Paul on behalf of the 17-member panel.

THE indictments against the Pennsylvania and Ohio men were returned after about 40 witnesses appeared before the panel probing activities at the Jockey Club near Chester.

Eleven of the defendants were arrested early Saturday in a raid by FBI agents and U. S. marshals on the club on U. S. 30 near the West Virginia-Pennsylvania line.

The 13 defendants were named in two separate indictments.

ONE indictment charges Charles F. Teemer, 62, of Hollywood, Fla., operator of the Jockey Club, and seven other men with eight violations, allegedly occurring from about Sept. 13 to about Feb. 15.

The indictment also lists 44 persons as "conspirators" in carrying on illegal activities at the Jockey Club.

Besides Teemer, others named on the eight counts are Joseph Pecora, 43, of Pittsburgh; Domenick Caputo, 58, of Hollywood, Fla., and Youngstown; Sidney Bahm, 54, of McKeesport; Joseph Tauburro, 50, Michael Simmera, 40, Alex Zryni, and Paul Arthur Bello, 50, all of Steubenville.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. sources report some Soviet troops —perhaps as many as 8,000—may ship out of Cuba within days. And American officials hope some of the Soviet weapons will be leaving too.

The forecast of the early departure is partly based on the arrival in Cuban waters of four empty or lightly loaded Soviet ships. One already has docked, sources said Wednesday night, and the three others are approaching the island.

The ship movements were disclosed barely a day after word circulated from congressional and diplomatic sources that the Soviet government had promised Monday to withdraw several thousand of its troops from Cuba by March 15.

The soldiers arrived there last fall with the offensive missiles and bombers which set off the Cuban crisis.

Seeks More Force On State And National Scene

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO is laying careful plans at winter union meetings to make organized labor an even more potent political force on the state and national scene.

Labor chiefs decided Wednesday to expand to a permanent, year-around basis previously sporadic campaigns to get the maximum number of union members and adult members of the family to qualify to vote and to go to the polls.

They also decided to establish voting overseers in each of the 60,000 local unions comprising labor organizations affiliated with the AFL-CIO. Their responsibility will be to marshal the greatest possible labor turnout in 1964 and beyond.

"We're now in this thing permanently" a spokesman said after an administrative meeting of the Committee on Political Education, the AFL-CIO political action organization.

Union leaders acknowledged they can't successfully tell workers how to vote, but said they are confident the vast majority generally will vote for candidates and issues favored by the union.

AFL-CIO drives before the 1960 and 1962 elections to get workers registered and voting were so successful, union leaders said, they are starting now to get ready for the 1964 presidential race and for state and national elections in later years.

U.S. Interceptors Say Fighters Made 2 Firing Passes

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy ordered the armed forces today "to take all necessary action" to prevent a recurrence of Wednesday's rocket attack by Cuba-based MIG planes on an American shrimp boat. Kennedy's action was announced by the White House, which attributed the attack in the Florida Straits to "Cuban aircraft".

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two MIG fighter planes based in Cuba made rocket firing passes Wednesday on a U.S. shrimp boat in the Florida Straits, the Defense Department announced today.

It said the shrimp boat was not hit and that its two-man crew sustained no injuries.

The department said U.S. jet interceptor planes took off when unidentified targets appeared on the Key West radar station screen.

The U.S. planes reported two MIG fighters made rocket firing passes at the shrimp boat, the Ala. A Pentagon spokesman said the U.S. planes saw the rocket firings as they were screaming out across the straits to check on the unidentified targets, which turned out to be the MIGs.

The passes apparently occurred as the MIGs were headed back toward Cuba. A spokesman said he was unable to say whether

Hospital Insurance Heart Of Program

Kennedy Asks $10 Billion For Aged Care Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy put his battered plans for health care of the elderly into new wrappings today—part of a $10 billion, five-year plan aimed to better life, income and housing for senior Americans.

But it was bound to be old hat to Congress.

Besides the expected, and once-defeated, proposals for hospital insurance for the aged through Social Security, the President asked again for tax benefits for the elderly, part of his tax message last month.

The hospital insurance plan is expected to cost $5.6 billion for the first four years, the tax benefits $3.9 billion for the first five years.

Thus, in this special message on problems of the aging—the first ever by an American president—the two biggest money items and all but a fraction of the total money package are quite familiar.

But, in addition, the President called for:

More money for low interest loans to build rental housing for elderly persons of moderate income.

New emphasis on building group residences for the elderly where central dining and housekeeping services are available, some nursing care can be provided, but privacy is preserved.

More jobs for those past retirement age who want to work—including a directive to federal agencies to evaluate applicants and employes on the basis of ability, not age.

In all, the President recommended 36 ways to better the lot of senior citizens. But the heart of the program was hospital insurance. Concurrent with the President's message, a new administration bill was to be introduced in Congress.

It was basically the same as a bill stymied by Congress last year. And it did nothing to bend to previous objections of the American Medical Association to any plan financed solely by Social Security.

Nor is there room in the new bill for private or voluntary health insurance plans to get into the picture, except as additional insurance. This had been suggested to some degree by liberal Republicans who offered their own Social Security-financed health bill Tuesday.

Last year's administration bill—almost a twin to this year's—died in the hands of the House Ways and Means Committee. An attempt to move it through the Senate as an amendment to a welfare bill was defeated 52 to 48.

The basic change this year is an option in benefits for insured persons. The prime benefits still provide for up to 90 days of paid hospital care after the insured patient has paid the first $20 to $90.

But the new bill allows two options, providing the insured elderly person chooses the option immediately before his 65th birthday. Once made, the choice cannot be changed.

The insured may choose to get 180 days of paid care, after first paying 2½ days himself. Or he may choose to get 45 days of paid care without paying for any part of it. If he makes neither choice, he gets the basic 90-day provision of the bill.

As in the earlier bill, the cost of the medical care would be borne largely by a boost in Social Security taxes. It would mean a maximum of $13 a year for each employe, and a like sum for his employer. It amounts to one-fourth of 1 per cent for the first $5,200 of the employe's income.

There are now, the President said, 17.5 million Americans aged 65 or older—and that number will swell to 25 million by 1980.

Liquor Profits Approved For School Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state has reached agreement with Schenley Distillers, Inc., to use state liquor profits to help pay 62.7 million in school subsidies due next Wednesday.

Schenley, which previously balked at such an arrangement, Wednesday accepted Finance Director Richard Krabach's plan for a two-year liquidation of about $70 million in past due accounts of all suppliers, most of them incurred by the previous administration.

The state owes Schenley, Ohio's largest supplier, more than $9 million.

Krabach said he agreed to stipulate that he would adhere to his payment plan under normal state operations so a court injunction could be lifted to permit use of liquor funds to pay off debts. Another distiller obtained the injunction to require use of liquor funds to pay debts.

The last report issued by Krabach's office said there was about $27 million in the liquor fund and some $33 million in the general fund. A $3 million payment to state retirement funds is due shortly and another $60 million school subsidy payment comes due in May.

Alvin Babb Given Tribute For Service To Chamber

At the 47th annual dinner meeting Wednesday night at the Country Club, the Chamber of Commerce paid tribute to Alvin T. Babb, immediate past president, "for aggressive leadership and faithful service."

Babb, vice president and secretary of YELP Service, Inc., headed the Chamber in 1961-62. As a crowd of about 175 looked on, he was presented with an engraved metal plaque mounted on a hardwood base. The inscription reads:

"Presented to Alvin T. Babb for aggressive leadership and faithful service as president of the East Liverpool Area Chamber of Commerce, 1961-'62."

William D. Ogilvie, who succeeded Babb as president, made the presentation on behalf of the Chamber. Ogilvie received the gavel from Babb, who presided in the early stages of the meeting.

Ogilvie commented that the plaque represents "thanks for a job well done, on behalf of the Board of Trustees and the members."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy ordered the armed forces today "to take all necessary action" to prevent a recurrence of Wednesday's rocket attack by Cuba-based MIG planes on an American shrimp boat. Kennedy's action was announced by the White House, which attributed the attack in the Florida Straits to "Cuban aircraft".

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two MIG fighter planes based in Cuba made rocket firing passes Wednesday on a U.S. shrimp boat in the Florida Straits, the Defense Department announced today.

It said the shrimp boat was not hit and that its two-man crew sustained no injuries.

The department said U.S. jet interceptor planes took off when unidentified targets appeared on the Key West radar station screen.

The U.S. planes reported two MIG fighters made rocket firing passes at the shrimp boat, the Ala. A Pentagon spokesman said the U.S. planes saw the rocket firings as they were screaming out across the straits to check on the unidentified targets, which turned out to be the MIGs.

The passes apparently occurred as the MIGs were headed back toward Cuba. A spokesman said he was unable to say whether

Mayor Leads City's Storm Cleanup Job

As usual after a heavy storm, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet made an inspection trip of East Liverpool streets early today and then went to his office at City Hall to direct the job of snow removal.

Four street department crews went to work early last night, shortly after the storm struck. Three of the crews quit work at 2 this morning, but the fourth remained on the job until 7.

The three crews which quit at 2 then resumed work this morning. Some of the major thoroughfares had been covered with ashes and salt three times in the first two hours of the storm last night, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen said. The snow accumulated so rapidly that the half the 17,000 Soviet military personnel President Kennedy said he believed were still on the island.

But the potential removal of some of the troops could raise a new problem—that of the Soviet weapons on Fidel Castro's island bastion.

Administration officials do not regard the weapons as an offensive threat to the United States. If put in Cuban hands, however, they would give Castro a new capacity to provoke the United States and stir up more troubles.

Causing the most concern are 24 antiaircraft missile bases capable of shooting down U.S. reconnaissance planes and relatively short range antiship missiles.

These weapons are understood to be still completely within Soviet control.

Administration officials have reported that among the Soviet military personnel on the island are four heavily armed combat battalions of 5,000 men.

If and when the combat units go the expectation is that they will take many, perhaps all, of their arms with them. But no one here rules out the possibility that much of this armament may be added to the arms already supplied to Castro's forces.

In the Senate the Armed Services Committee will ask defense officials for a detailed report on the Cuban situation.

Dr. Manuel de Varona, president of the Cuban Senate from 1950 to 1952 told a House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee Wednesday that there are definitely more than 17,000 Soviet troops in Cuba, perhaps up to 30,000.

Calling for a U.S. invasion "to restore peace to the hemisphere," De Varona said "well informed sources in Vienna" report the Soviets have established secret military bases in the jungles of northwest Brazil and in the mountains of Paraguay.

County Alumni Told OSU Sees Huge Enrollment

LISBON — "Enrollment at Ohio State University, now 30,000, is expected to increase by 140 per cent in the next 10 years," Rodney J. Harrison, director of student financial aid and scholarship office at the university, told a dinner meeting of the OSU alumni of Northern Columbiana County Wednesday night.

The dinner was held at the Wick Hotel.

Harrison outlined plans for expansion at OSU and cited the need for increased funds because of the rising cost of education, pointing out that the cost of sending an average student to Ohio State was $1,600 in 1962.

Declaring that more high-caliber high school graduates now attend the university, he said 67 per cent of the freshmen entering last fall had been in the upper one third of their high school graduating class.

Harrison said about 3,000 students at Ohio State are aided through scholarships, loans and fellowships.

Accompanying him was Richard Walters, director of field service at the university, who spoke briefly about the development fund. Thirty-three attended.

Floyd Guterba of Columbiana, president, conducted business when eight new directors were named for the coming year.

Dr. George Jones of Salem, secretary, introduced the speaker.

Babb also introduced the Chamber's other new officers: Robert E. Boyce, first vice president; A. C. Purinton Jr., second vice president; Wendell H. Vodrey, treasurer, and E. R. Chandler, executive manager.

He presented seven new members of the Board of Trustees: Vodrey, Joseph D. Coons, H. J. English, John T. Hall, James A. Locke, George A. Shaw and William E. Williams.

The Chamber also recognized men whose terms on the board expired in 1962: C. W. Ashbaugh, David E. Beatty, Ralph W. Betts, George Bloomgren, David G. Boyce and C. V. Hughes.

The program was highlighted by an address by William C. Craig, chairman of the Department of Speech at the College of Wooster.

Visiting Chamber executives present were:

County Seeks Return Of 3 In Area Holdup

Warrants on charges of armed robbery will be forwarded today to Beaver County authorities in connection with the holdup of Henry C. Smith at the Valley Service Station in Cannons Mills Monday.

If they make bonds in Beaver County, the three will be returned to Columbiana County to enter pleas, Sheriff VanFossan said.

Jordon was identified by Smith as the bandit who took $30 from him at gunpoint at 6:15 Monday. The three were apprehended in a roadblock about 35 minutes later in Pennsylvania, after the Pennsylvania station holdup.

The department said the incident occurred in international waters 60 nautical miles north of the Cuban mainland and 78 nautical miles east-southeast of Key West.

The MIG fighters left the area of the shrimp boat when contacted by U.S. aircraft dispatched by the Air Defense Command in southern Florida," the Pentagon statement said.

"There was no engagement between the MIGs and the U.S. interceptors who witnessed some of the firings."

A spokesman said the term "contacted" meant visually contacted rather than any radio conversations or physical contact.

He said four MIGs were in the area but that apparently only two were involved in the rocket passes.

The shrimp boat was out of Fort Myers, Fla., and owned by the Seafood Packing Co. Its crewmen were identified as Paris Jackson and Benjamin Washington.

"When rescued by a destroyer escort, Jackson and Washington reported they had been drifting about three days because of engine failure," the department said.

The Ala left Fort Myers on Feb. 10 and its crew said the engine failed the afternoon of Feb. 17, the Pentagon reported.

City crews worked on many fronts this morning in the snow removal task.

Some of the men were assigned to removing big drifts that accumulated on the city's metered parking lots. Others were put to work removing snow from business district crosswalks and applying salt to prevent ice from forming on the pavement.

Some of the street department's workers were assigned to clearing accumulations of snow from sewer drops to assure flow of water when the thaw comes, rather than forming ice. A crew was dispatched to remove snow from the sidewalks around the Carnegie Public Library.

Officers said damage was moderate. Clement was charged with traveling at a speed in excess of safe road conditions.

County Firemen View Granary Fire Movies

About 35 attended a meeting of the Columbiana County Firemen's Association Wednesday night at Damascus at which movies of granary fires and how they are ignited were screened.

The Chamber also recognized men whose terms on the board expired in 1962: C. W. Ashbaugh, David E. Beatty, Ralph W. Betts, George Bloomgren, David G. Boyce and C. V. Hughes.

The program was highlighted by an address by William C. Craig, chairman of the Department of Speech at the College of Wooster.

Visiting Chamber executives present were:

County Seeks Return Of 3 In Area Holdup

Warrants on charges of armed robbery will be forwarded today to Beaver County authorities in connection with the holdup of Henry C. Smith at the Valley Service Station in Cannons Mills Monday.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan seeks the return of Robert L. Jordon, 30, Alfred L. Bonner, 29, and George Robinson, 39, all of Canton, now being held in the Beaver County jail for armed robbery of the Highway Oil Co. Station near the Pennsylvania - West Virginia state line the same evening.

If they make bonds in Beaver County, the three will be returned to Columbiana County to enter pleas, Sheriff VanFossan said.

Jordon was identified by Smith as the bandit who took $30 from him at gunpoint at 6:15 Monday. The three were apprehended in a roadblock about 35 minutes later in Pennsylvania, after the Pennsylvania station holdup.

The department said the incident occurred in international waters 60 nautical miles north of the Cuban mainland and 78 nautical miles east-southeast of Key West.

The MIG fighters left the area of the shrimp boat when contacted by U.S. aircraft dispatched by the Air Defense Command in southern Florida," the Pentagon statement said.

"There was no engagement between the MIGs and the U.S. interceptors who witnessed some of the firings."

A spokesman said the term "contacted" meant visually contacted rather than any radio conversations or physical contact.

He said four MIGs were in the area but that apparently only two were involved in the rocket passes.

The shrimp boat was out of Fort Myers, Fla., and owned by the Seafood Packing Co. Its crewmen were identified as Paris Jackson and Benjamin Washington.

"When rescued by a destroyer escort, Jackson and Washington reported they had been drifting about three days because of engine failure," the department said.

The Ala left Fort Myers on Feb. 10 and its crew said the engine failed the afternoon of Feb. 17, the Pentagon reported.

ashes and salt were covered as quickly as they were applied.

Some of the men were assigned to removing big drifts that accumulated on the city's metered parking lots. Others were put to work removing snow from business district crosswalks and applying salt to prevent ice from forming on the pavement.

Some of the street department's workers were assigned to clearing accumulations of snow from sewer drops to assure flow of water when the thaw comes, rather than forming ice. A crew was dispatched to remove snow from the sidewalks around the Carnegie Public Library.

Rig Jack-Knifes, Hits Auto Without Injury

A tractor-trailer jack-knifed on a curve of Route 170 near East Palestine and struck an oncoming auto Wednesday night, but no one was injured the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

The rig, driven south by Lester E. Clement, 36, of Ashtabula, jack-knifed about a half mile south of East Palestine at 10:30 p. m., and the trailer struck the car operated by Rudolph Sacchet, 39, of East Palestine R. D. 2.

Officers said damage was moderate. Clement was charged with traveling at a speed in excess of safe road conditions.

County Firemen View Granary Fire Movies

About 35 attended a meeting of the Columbiana County Firemen's Association Wednesday night at Damascus at which movies of granary fires and how they are ignited were screened.

It was agreed that any representatives to state and district meetings would consult with the Executive Board of the group to determine policy stands on various matters to be aired at the meetings.

Refreshments were served. Next meeting is March 20 at West Point.

Would It Be A Trick?

If the net effect of income taxing by school districts in Ohio would be to shift the burden of the School Foundation Act from the state to localities, it would be a legislative trick on school districts.

The foundation program's purpose was to equalize educational opportunity throughout the state by helping local districts with state aid.

The purpose was to put a floor under Ohio education so that even in the most tax-starved local districts children would have a minimum chance to be educated.

The idea was threshed out thoroughly at the time. It has been combed over thoroughly ever since the 1930s, when the principle of equalization was adopted in Ohio. It is a fixed policy.

ANYTHING that threatened to interfere with it would be a drastic change.

It would be especially drastic if a switch in tax emphasis had the net effect of putting Ohio education at the mercy of the voting whims of local school districts, where it was before, when all school support came from local levies on real estate.

What would be the effect of letting local school districts take their chances with local income taxes, in competition with municipalities already levying these taxes?

Would the municipalities be in danger of getting the short end of the stick when voters had to choose between approving an income tax for schools and an income tax for local government?

Would Ohio, having saddled boards of education with the onus of income tax collection, gradually whittle down its general revenue fund allocations under the school foundation program?

THESE QUESTIONS are raised by the proposal in the General Assembly to switch around the tax structure so local school districts and municipalities would be competing with each other for income tax revenue?

If the eventual result would be to give the state a clean sweep of general revenue while local government and school districts cut up one another in a scramble for income tax authorization, it would be a cruel trick on both education and local government.

The state would have gained some of the theoretical benefits of an income tax by letting local school districts hold the bag.

Vocational Guidance

The machinery has been set in motion for the annual Vocational Conference Week at East Liverpool High School.

The potential of such a program is great. Those who address the various groups have a definite responsibility, but it is the interest or disinterest of the participating students which will determine the eventual evaluation.

Each student should view the conferences as an opportunity to absorb information which can prove of value in future endeavors.

There is plenty of time from now until March 26 to prepare yourself for the guidance discussions you may select. Don't approach them with a blank mind. Instead, have constructive questions ready. Both you and those in charge of the various groups will benefit as a result.

'Airing Of Facts' Should Continue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Premier Khrushchev has thrown President Kennedy and his critics a crumb — a promised withdrawal of a "few thousand" Soviet troops from Cuba. This is an unsatisfactory answer to the request of the United States that all Russian troops should leave the island and that the Soviets should give up their military base in Cuba. Leading Democrats as well as Republicans in Congress have voiced their dissatisfaction over the inadequacy of the Soviet action.

David Lawrence

It is doubtful whether either the President or his critics will let the matter rest with a partial withdrawal of Soviet troops. For there is no way of knowing how many more Russian "civilians" or "technicians" will enter Cuba in the next few weeks to replace those who will have departed.

The Congressional criticism has had its effect, however, and will continue. It is unfortunate that Undersecretary of State George Ball and some of the administration spokesman in Congress recently chose to regard any criticism as partisan and called for bipartisanship.

ACTUALLY, there has been bipartisanship among the critics. Much of what has been said in Congress in disapproval of the Cuban policy has come from Democrats. A few days ago, Sen. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of a subcommittee on military affairs, expressed the opinion that the criticism had been helpful and that the investigation of our Cuban policy undertaken by his subcommittee "will give strength to the President—and Khrushchev will realize it."

After the announcement of the coming withdrawal of a portion of the Soviet army in Cuba, Mr. Stennis, in a statement, said:

"Even though this is an encouraging step, it is only one step. Our policy must be an insistence that they all be withdrawn. This is the only thing that will really remove the menace."

Other senators in both parties—Russell, D-Ga., Lausche, D-Ohio, Smathers, D-Fla., Mansfield, D-Mont., Dirksen, R-Ill., Aiken, R-Vt., and Goldwater, R-Ariz., echoed the same sentiment.

There are currently, of course, some partisans among the critics. These Republicans seem to have learned a lesson from the Democrats, who managed to make Cuba an issue in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Those criticisms may have swung enough votes to be a factor in the close race that Mr. Kennedy won over Mr. Nixon.

The Democratic presidential nominee's words, therefore, are being reread by some of the Republicans as a lesson in how to succeed in campaigning without really trying to be nonpartisan. Mr. Kennedy, for example, had this to say in a speech at Johnstown, Pa., on Oct. 15, 1960:

"For the transformation of Cuba into a Community base of operations a few minutes from our coast — by jet plane, missile, or submarine — is an incredibly dangerous development to have been permitted by our Republican policymakers. . . .

"This wouldn't have happened under Franklin Roosevelt, who warned the Nazis in 1940 to stay out of our hemisphere; this wouldn't have happened under Harry Truman, who warned the Communists in 1947 to stay out of Greece and Turkey."

In another speech, the Democratic candidate included Cuba in six key areas in the world in which he charged that the administration was reacting too late.

HE REPEATEDLY declared that American prestige was very low. There were speeches about the alleged "missile gap," and Mr. Kennedy often referred to surveys which, he said, showed that a majority of the people in several countries believed the Soviet Union was "ahead of us militarily and scientifically."

Even the Senate Foreign relations Committee, whose chairman was Sen. Fulbright, D-Ark., issued a report on June 28, 1960, criticizing President Eisenhower for having used the U2 surveillance planes. The committee claimed it didn't have all the information it needed, but then said anyhow:

"The development, publication, examination and discussion of information such as this, it seems to the committee, is essential to the democratic process. When carried on responsibly, it can only produce beneficial results, even at critical moments in our foreign affairs.

"Only through a public airing of the facts can a representative government be held to proper account and its mistakes, if any, identified and corrected."

MANY REPUBLICANS who in recent weeks have reexamined that paragraph in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee report took it to heart and tried to "air the facts" so as to "produce beneficial results."

Sen. Fulbright nevertheless has just denounced the Republicans as partisan. The truth is that in the Democratic party several of the critics have been more severe in their castigation of the Kennedy administration's foreign policy than the Republicans have been.

Maybe if the bipartisan critics keep up their "airing of the facts," they will persuade Premier Khrushchev that American public opinion isn't satisfied with the continuance of a Soviet military base in Cuba and is demanding that it be abolished without further delay.

'It's A Nice Place To Visit But I Wouldn't Want To Live Here.'

Cuban Shoe On The Other Foot

He is being blamed for not clearing up a mess that no one knows how to clean up.

Being in politics, he knows that Cuba is being made an issue in partisan politics; that a large part of the sniping at him and his administration is politically contrived to keep him on the defensive.

With this in the background, President Kennedy has every reason to want to get the Cuba critics off his back, if he can. But there is one detail in the background that he may overlook.

At the climax of the presidential campaign in 1960, candidate John F. Kennedy tied into candidate Richard M. Nixon for the Eisenhower administration's Cuban policy.

He let his opponent have it between the eyes, lock, stock and barrel, for what he referred to as a "too little and too late" policy of running an economic and diplomatic boycott of Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy advocated a two-fisted, slambang attack on Communism in the Caribbean, including Cuba, and when Mr. Nixon accused him of advocating U.S. military intercession and he denied this, the two candidates were accusing each other of lying, in the roundabout language used by public figures staging a quarrel for the public.

When things reached the sizzling point, Mr. Kennedy switched his attack to the Eisenhower administration's policy on Quemoy and Matsu. Oddly, he blamed it for doing there what he said he would have preferred to do in Cuba; namely, start shooting. But consistency never has been required of political campaigners.

It just happens that John F. Kennedy is not in a good position in 1963 to wince because his critics keep talking about Cuba. He was the one who brought the subject into partisan politics in 1960.

Labor, Steel Firms Work For Agreement

By VICTOR RIESEL

PITTSBURGH, PA.

It's open season on crises on this front. But you ain't seen nothin' yet. Summertime next year, '64, will see the expiration of two huge contracts — those covering the national steel industry and the auto making business. And lest we forget, summertime next year will also see the tension grow in John Kennedy's campaign for reelection.

Victor Riesel

The middle of a presidential election battle is no time for crises or labor-management deadlines. They could become the issues on which the campaign would be fought. Actually there should be no contract time deadlines. And this is not as strange as it sounds.

There is a feeling among insiders that along with political hysteria these deadlines breed recessions.

Manufacturers and merchants and dealers see a labor deadline coming. They run scared of a strike. They begin buying and stockpiling.

PRODUCTION goes round the clock. There's heavy overtime. Suddenly at some point the buying ceases. The stockpilers live off their inventories. Production slows. There are heavy layoffs. A recession sets in.

So in the steel industry, at least, there appear to be contracts without compulsory deadlines. Dave McDonald's steel workers' union does not have to reopen its contract this year after May 1 — as it can.

It does not even have to end its contract in the summer of 1964, when the basic agreement is up. It's so written that the contract need never expire — not until either side gives 90 days' notice. And it need not give it until 1965. Or later.

Instead of crisis-deadline bargaining under sleepless and hysterical pressure, there is constant bargaining.

On many basic matters the contract can be changed any time on mutual agreement. This is the meaning of the constant conferring here of the steel industry's Human Relations Committee and its many task forces.

THE CAST of characters, meaning no insult, is the same as the famed top bargaining unit of the last crisis. For the union: Dave McDonald, union president; I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer; Howard Hague, vice president; Dave Feller and Elliot Bredhoff, lawyers; and the "anonymous" economic marvel, Marvin Miller, top technician who worked out the Kaiser cost-saving sharing plan.

Speaking for the steel industry are U.S. Steel's executive vice president, Conrad Cooper, and its vice president, Heath Larry also Republic Steel's vice president Harold "Lefty" Lumb, and Bethlehem Steel's vice president, Russell K. Branscom.

The public should know what these men and their aides talk about. One of the most grevious problems is something called "contracting out."

It's possible that a national strike could break out over this matter — possible but not probable now that it is being quietly discussed, hour after hour, day after day.

What is "contracting out"?

THERE IS, for example, a Texas steel plant into which regularly arrive some 300 laborers. They come in to do the digging, cleaning, etc. They work for an outside contractor, retained by the steel mill operators. If this "contracting out" practice were not used there would be 300 more jobs for members of the United Steelworkers Union — to which the outside laborers do not belong.

There is an open hearth steel mill in Youngstown, Ohio. It brings in "traxcavator operators." They remove the slag, which falls onto the floor of the pit below the furnace. After it cools off, of course.

In the past 18 members of the steelworkers' union rolled in on the strange caterpillar mechanism, dug up and removed the slag.

Then the company "contracted out." It hired a contractor to get the slag. And it laid off the 18 union members.

IN OTHER plants there is the matter of repairing electric motors, rewinding the armatures, for example. At some plants the steelworkers' union members used to do this. Then the steel firms contracted out. They sent the motors to shops in the neighborhood. Men in the mill were laid off.

Even window washing has been affected the same way.

There are scores of examples. The steel companies contract out to cut costs. It's less expensive than paying steel union standards, they say.

This problem now is being discussed and rediscussed by the Human Relations subcommittees. Just as, for example, Dave McDonald's proposal for a shorter work year is discussed. McDonald wants a shorter work period (not necessarily a shorter work week) with no loss in pay.

This, it is hoped, will make more jobs. In the committees this comes under the heading of "vacations of long duration."

Both sides hope they can talk and talk and finally, if the rank and file will be patient, it will be worked out without strikes, without crisis deadlines.

Quietly, this has become the new look in labor relations, we all hope.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

That was a nice amusing piece you wrote a while ago about the way to get a big job done is to tell someone you don't think he can handle it and he will break his neck to prove you wrong. Now, all you have to do is to figure out how to get us to do little, boring, routine, repetitious jobs.

Or how do you get someone to do a big job over again once he has proved he can do the first time? Your technique does not work the second time, because you get the answer: "Oh I did that once. It's easy."

Jobs in this category that come to mind include: mowing the lawn, doing the dishes, weeding the garden and other such household chores.

In business and industry there are thousands of these projects in which a new broom will sweep clean but miss some of the corners the next time around.

As one who has not known his automobile license number since his youthful enthusiasm of 30 years ago and is never sure he even knows his own home telephone number, I intend to sit out the current squabble over the seven-digit telephone numbers and all-number calling. I'll have to settle for knowing my street address and let it go at that. At least I'll be able to find my house.

It came as a shock to read an article in the paper describing how to do such simple things as driving a nail, using a chisel and other elementary operations with hand tools. This advice was offered for softies who have gone overboard on power tools and forgotten how things used to be done in the Dark Ages. Are we that far away from 10 or 20 years ago? In case you are interested, you tap a small nail lightly with a wrist movement but hit a big nail harder, bending your elbow. That's what it said. No kidding.

The current standoff between Russia and the United States, with China voicing most of the belligerency, reminds me of when we were schoolboys and someone named China would say to someone named Russia: "You and him fight; I'll hold your coat."

One minor mystery I wonder about is why when I pick up a new word, geographical place name, or the name of some historical figure new to me, that name pops up again within a week. Instead of feeling superstitious about this I prefer to believe it is the result of being aware of the name for the first time; the name probably has been there off and on all my life. The latest instance involved Samuel Slater (1768-1835), an Englishman who came to America and rebuilt from memory English textile machinery which earned him the title "the father of American manufacturing." The day after I read about Slater in a book, I heard a radio program telling about his accomplishments.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

One of my favorite outriders has called in to say Spring is on the way. Says he saw his first teenage girl in short shorts and a tight sweater twirling a baton. Says he used to look for first robins but there's no thrill in robins.

I have been rediscovering radio while carrying on a woodwork painting project. Takes me back to the days when a fellow could listen while doing odd jobs around the house. I know now why the broadcasting people feel there always will be a place for radio, just as we newspaper people feel equally sure there always will be a place for people who like to read.

Enticing travel ads say England begins to enjoy Spring in February, and they make you wonder this year. Have they melted all the snow that fell over there this winter?

The thought may never have crossed her mind, but Princess Grace of Monaco invited comparison with our First Lady on that television tour of her living quarters—but, true to the end, I am still for Jackie, though conceding that Princess Grace is more photogenic.

The red velvet vest I was given for a Christmas present still has the tags on it. Its chances of being worn grow more remote day by day. Who would think of wearing a red velvet vest in the summertime, which will be here any month?

One of the most significant things that has happened in my generation is the change in the accepted viewpoint about our Puritan heritage, as reflected in the increasing use of the adjective "Puritanical" as a term of derision.

I think it's as ridiculous for people to refuse to watch television on the pretext it's not worth their time as it would be to refuse to read because some things that appear in print aren't worth their time, either.

Thinking back over the ready - openers available in conversational games with other people, I am grateful to these topics: my dogs, my sheep, the little tractor I use in Rosy Fingered Dawn, the little auto I go back and forth in and RFD itself. Without these, I don't know what I would have found safe to talk about the last decade.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

And now it's the "Walking Craze". I wonder if there is someone in our nation would start a "Prayer Craze".

What a difference, however, it would mean, as regards the crowds that would attend such a meeting. We are all weighed in the balance and found wanting in this respect. As a nation, we don't do enough walking, as we have too many automobiles. What our nation really needs, is to take time to be holy and listen obediently to what God is saying to us through His word, the Bible.

Whatever our point of view is regarding this matter is indeed important to each individual for we must all appear at the judgment bar of God to give an account of our stewardship to Him who gave His all for us.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I am writing this letter to all the people that was on the committee that circulated referendum petitions to get the city income tax put on the ballot last November election.

I find that the city auditor violated the state of Ohio election law.

Following is a section of the law that he violated.

"In determining the sufficiency of any petition such signatures as are found to be false or irregular shall be rejected, but no petition shall be invalidated in its entirety if one or more signatures or part - petitions are found to be false, irregular, or invalid, except when the number of valid signatures is, as a result thereof, less than that number required by law.

I will endorse this action to be taken. Trades and Labor Council should file a charge against the city auditor with the secretary of state and demand a special election.

Walking Craze

Americans who bravely set out on 50-mile hikes these days are fortified by encouragement from at least three presidents and a major poet.

Thomas Jefferson declared, "Of all exercises, walking is the best." Theodore Roosevelt, a hearty advocate of the strenuous life, ordered Marine officers to prove their fitness by making 50-mile marches.

When President John F. Kennedy challenged the Marine Corps to obey the 55-year-old order, he touched off a national hiking fad. Servicemen, college students, Boy Scouts and secretaries embarked on long-distance walks in the spirit of Whitman's lines:

Afoot and light-hearted, I take to the open road.

Healthy, free, the world before me.

Walking for health has a long history, the National Geographic Society says. Hippocrates prescribed walks to prevent emotional disturbances, hallucinations and expansion of the waistline. Pliny the Elder described walking as one of the "Medicines of the Will".

Walking for pleasure, however, is a relatively recent pastime. The character in Congreve's "Way of the World" who said, "I nauseate walking," spoke for most 18th-century pedestrians. Only a few eccentrics walked for the joy of it.

The ramblings of William Wordsworth and other literary men helped popularize walking, though for many years English walkers carried umbrellas to indicate they were gentlemen, not tramps.

The electric iron was the first electrical household appliance invented. It appeared on the American scene soon after the incandescent lamp.

An estimated 6,000 different languages are spoken throughout the world. A mere seven are spoken by half the human race.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Mrs. Mary Dunlap spoke on "What's Wrong With the Modern Movie" at a meeting of the Young People's Society in the LaCroft Church of the Nazarene.

Miss Doris Lodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lodge of Sophia St., was accepted in the WAVES.

ANYTHING that threatened to interfere with it would be a drastic change.

It would be especially drastic if a switch in tax emphasis had the net effect of putting Ohio education at the mercy of the voting whims of local school districts, where it was before, when all school support came from local levies on real estate.

What would be the effect of letting local school districts take their chances with local income taxes, in competition with municipalities already levying these taxes?

Would the municipalities be in danger of getting the short end of the stick when voters had to choose between approving an income tax for schools and an income tax for local government?

Would Ohio, having saddled boards of education with the onus of income tax collection, gradually whittle down its general revenue fund allocations under the school foundation program?

THESE QUESTIONS are raised by the proposal in the General Assembly to switch around the tax structure so local school districts and municipalities would be competing with each other for income tax revenue?

If the eventual result would be to give the state a clean sweep of general revenue while local government and school districts cut up one another in a scramble for income tax authorization, it would be a cruel trick on both education and local government.

The state would have gained some of the theoretical benefits of an income tax by letting local school districts hold the bag.

Vocational Guidance

The machinery has been set in motion for the annual Vocational Conference Week at East Liverpool High School.

The potential of such a program is great. Those who address the various groups have a definite responsibility, but it is the interest or disinterest of the participating students which will determine the eventual evaluation.

Each student should view the conferences as an opportunity to absorb information which can prove of value in future endeavors.

There is plenty of time from now until March 26 to prepare yourself for the guidance discussions you may select. Don't approach them with a blank mind. Instead, have constructive questions ready. Both you and those in charge of the various groups will benefit as a result.

'Airing Of Facts' Should Continue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Premier Khrushchev has thrown President Kennedy and his critics a crumb — a promised withdrawal of a "few thousand" Soviet troops from Cuba. This is an unsatisfactory answer to the request of the United States that all Russian troops should leave the island and that the Soviets should give up their military base in Cuba. Leading Democrats as well as Republicans in Congress have voiced their dissatisfaction over the inadequacy of the Soviet action.

David Lawrence

It is doubtful whether either the President or his critics will let the matter rest with a partial withdrawal of Soviet troops. For there is no way of knowing how many more Russian "civilians" or "technicians" will enter Cuba in the next few weeks to replace those who will have departed.

The Congressional criticism has had its effect, however, and will continue. It is unfortunate that Undersecretary of State George Ball and some of the administration spokesman in Congress recently chose to regard any criticism as partisan and called for bipartisanship.

ACTUALLY, there has been bipartisanship among the critics. Much of what has been said in Congress in disapproval of the Cuban policy has come from Democrats. A few days ago, Sen. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of a subcommittee on military affairs, expressed the opinion that the criticism had been helpful and that the investigation of our Cuban policy undertaken by his subcommittee "will give strength to the President—and Khrushchev will realize it."

After the announcement of the coming withdrawal of a portion of the Soviet army in Cuba, Mr. Stennis, in a statement, said:

"Even though this is an encouraging step, it is only one step. Our policy must be an insistence that they all be withdrawn. This is the only thing that will really remove the menace."

Other senators in both parties—Russell, D-Ga., Lausche, D-Ohio, Smathers, D-Fla., Mansfield, D-Mont., Dirksen, R-Ill., Aiken, R-Vt., and Goldwater, R-Ariz., echoed the same sentiment.

There are currently, of course, some partisans among the critics. These Republicans seem to have learned a lesson from the Democrats, who managed to make Cuba an issue in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Those criticisms may have swung enough votes to be a factor in the close race that Mr. Kennedy won over Mr. Nixon.

The Democratic presidential nominee's words, therefore, are being reread by some of the Republicans as a lesson in how to succeed in campaigning without really trying to be nonpartisan. Mr. Kennedy, for example, had this to say in a speech at Johnstown, Pa., on Oct. 15, 1960:

"For the transformation of Cuba into a Community base of operations a few minutes from our coast — by jet plane, missile, or submarine — is an incredibly dangerous development to have been permitted by our Republican policymakers. . . .

"This wouldn't have happened under Franklin Roosevelt, who warned the Nazis in 1940 to stay out of our hemisphere; this wouldn't have happened under Harry Truman, who warned the Communists in 1947 to stay out of Greece and Turkey."

In another speech, the Democratic candidate included Cuba in six key areas in the world in which he charged that the administration was reacting too late.

HE REPEATEDLY declared that American prestige was very low. There were speeches about the alleged "missile gap," and Mr. Kennedy often referred to surveys which, he said, showed that a majority of the people in several countries believed the Soviet Union was "ahead of us militarily and scientifically."

Even the Senate Foreign relations Committee, whose chairman was Sen. Fulbright, D-Ark., issued a report on June 28, 1960, criticizing President Eisenhower for having used the U2 surveillance planes. The committee claimed it didn't have all the information it needed, but then said anyhow:

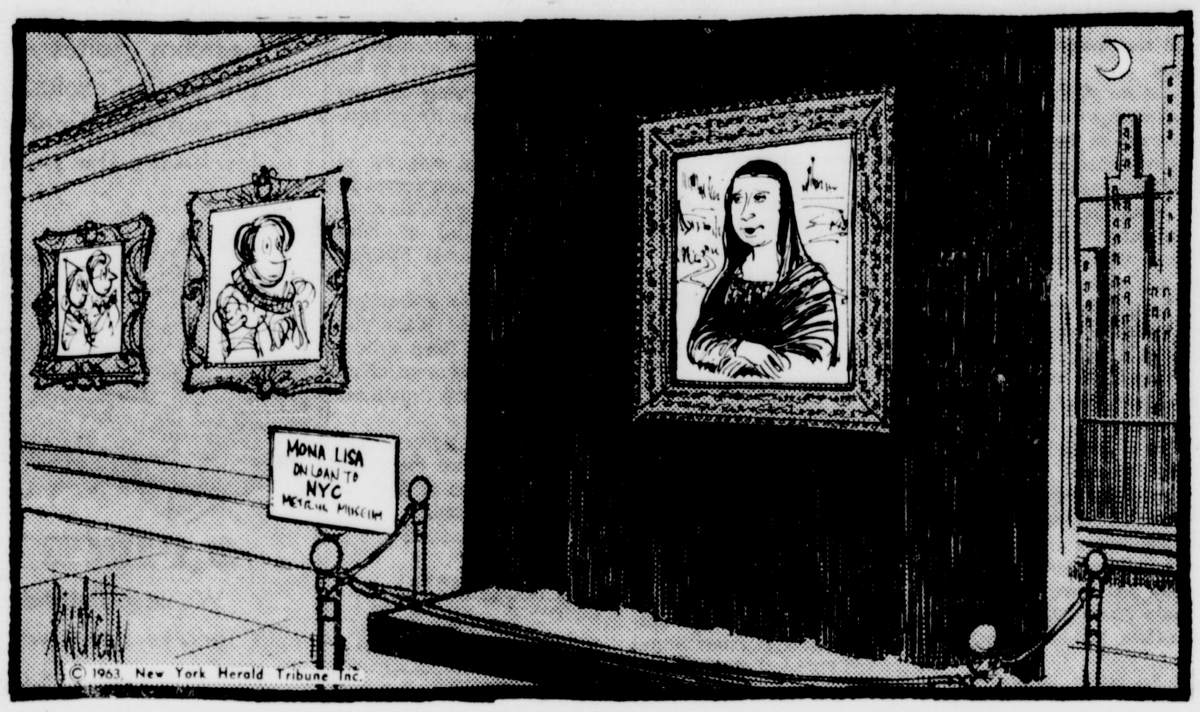

"The development, publication, examination and discussion of information such as this, it seems to the committee, is essential to the democratic process. When carried on responsibly, it can only produce beneficial results, even at critical moments in our foreign affairs.

"Only through a public airing of the facts can a representative government be held to proper account and its mistakes, if any, identified and corrected."

MANY REPUBLICANS who in recent weeks have reexamined that paragraph in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee report took it to heart and tried to "air the facts" so as to "produce beneficial results."

Sen. Fulbright nevertheless has just denounced the Republicans as partisan. The truth is that in the Democratic party several of the critics have been more severe in their castigation of the Kennedy administration's foreign policy than the Republicans have been.

Maybe if the bipartisan critics keep up their "airing of the facts," they will persuade Premier Khrushchev that American public opinion isn't satisfied with the continuance of a Soviet military base in Cuba and is demanding that it be abolished without further delay.

'It's A Nice Place To Visit But I Wouldn't Want To Live Here.'

Cuban Shoe On The Other Foot

It is understandable that President Kennedy is irked by nagging criticism of his handling of the Cuban dilemma.

He is being blamed for not clearing up a mess that no one knows how to clean up.

Being in politics, he knows that Cuba is being made an issue in partisan politics; that a large part of the sniping at him and his administration is politically contrived to keep him on the defensive.

With this in the background, President Kennedy has every reason to want to get the Cuba critics off his back, if he can. But there is one detail in the background that he may overlook.

At the climax of the presidential campaign in 1960, candidate John F. Kennedy tied into candidate Richard M. Nixon for the Eisenhower administration's Cuban policy.

He let his opponent have it between the eyes, lock, stock and barrel, for what he referred to as a "too little and too late" policy of running an economic and diplomatic boycott of Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy advocated a two-fisted, slambang attack on Communism in the Caribbean, including Cuba, and when Mr. Nixon accused him of advocating U.S. military intercession and he denied this, the two candidates were accusing each other of lying, in the roundabout language used by public figures staging a quarrel for the public.

When things reached the sizzling point, Mr. Kennedy switched his attack to the Eisenhower administration's policy on Quemoy and Matsu. Oddly, he blamed it for doing there what he said he would have preferred to do in Cuba; namely, start shooting. But consistency never has been required of political campaigners.

It just happens that John F. Kennedy is not in a good position in 1963 to wince because his critics keep talking about Cuba. He was the one who brought the subject into partisan politics in 1960.

Labor, Steel Firms Work For Agreement

By VICTOR RIESEL

PITTSBURGH, PA.

It's open season on crises on this front. But you ain't seen nothin' yet. Summertime next year, '64, will see the expiration of two huge contracts — those covering the national steel industry and the auto making business. And lest we forget, summertime next year will also see the tension grow in John Kennedy's campaign for reelection.

Victor Riesel

The middle of a presidential election battle is no time for crises or labor-management deadlines. They could become the issues on which the campaign would be fought. Actually there should be no contract time deadlines. And this is not as strange as it sounds.

There is a feeling among insiders that along with political hysteria these deadlines breed recessions.

Manufacturers and merchants and dealers see a labor deadline coming. They run scared of a strike. They begin buying and stockpiling.

PRODUCTION goes round the clock. There's heavy overtime. Suddenly at some point the buying ceases. The stockpilers live off their inventories. Production slows. There are heavy layoffs. A recession sets in.

So in the steel industry, at least, there appear to be contracts without compulsory deadlines. Dave McDonald's steel workers' union does not have to reopen its contract this year after May 1 — as it can.

It does not even have to end its contract in the summer of 1964, when the basic agreement is up. It's so written that the contract need never expire — not until either side gives 90 days' notice. And it need not give it until 1965. Or later.

Instead of crisis-deadline bargaining under sleepless and hysterical pressure, there is constant bargaining.

On many basic matters the contract can be changed any time on mutual agreement. This is the meaning of the constant conferring here of the steel industry's Human Relations Committee and its many task forces.

THE CAST of characters, meaning no insult, is the same as the famed top bargaining unit of the last crisis. For the union: Dave McDonald, union president; I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer; Howard Hague, vice president; Dave Feller and Elliot Bredhoff, lawyers; and the "anonymous" economic marvel, Marvin Miller, top technician who worked out the Kaiser cost-saving sharing plan.

Speaking for the steel industry are U.S. Steel's executive vice president, Conrad Cooper, and its vice president, Heath Larry also Republic Steel's vice president Harold "Lefty" Lumb, and Bethlehem Steel's vice president, Russell K. Branscom.

The public should know what these men and their aides talk about. One of the most grevious problems is something called "contracting out."

It's possible that a national strike could break out over this matter — possible but not probable now that it is being quietly discussed, hour after hour, day after day.

What is "contracting out"?

THERE IS, for example, a Texas steel plant into which regularly arrive some 300 laborers. They come in to do the digging, cleaning, etc. They work for an outside contractor, retained by the steel mill operators. If this "contracting out" practice were not used there would be 300 more jobs for members of the United Steelworkers Union — to which the outside laborers do not belong.

There is an open hearth steel mill in Youngstown, Ohio. It brings in "traxcavator operators." They remove the slag, which falls onto the floor of the pit below the furnace. After it cools off, of course.

In the past 18 members of the steelworkers' union rolled in on the strange caterpillar mechanism, dug up and removed the slag.

Then the company "contracted out." It hired a contractor to get the slag. And it laid off the 18 union members.

IN OTHER plants there is the matter of repairing electric motors, rewinding the armatures, for example. At some plants the steelworkers' union members used to do this. Then the steel firms contracted out. They sent the motors to shops in the neighborhood. Men in the mill were laid off.

Even window washing has been affected the same way.

There are scores of examples. The steel companies contract out to cut costs. It's less expensive than paying steel union standards, they say.

This problem now is being discussed and rediscussed by the Human Relations subcommittees. Just as, for example, Dave McDonald's proposal for a shorter work year is discussed. McDonald wants a shorter work period (not necessarily a shorter work week) with no loss in pay.

This, it is hoped, will make more jobs. In the committees this comes under the heading of "vacations of long duration."

Both sides hope they can talk and talk and finally, if the rank and file will be patient, it will be worked out without strikes, without crisis deadlines.

Quietly, this has become the new look in labor relations, we all hope.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

That was a nice amusing piece you wrote a while ago about the way to get a big job done is to tell someone you don't think he can handle it and he will break his neck to prove you wrong. Now, all you have to do is to figure out how to get us to do little, boring, routine, repetitious jobs.

Or how do you get someone to do a big job over again once he has proved he can do the first time? Your technique does not work the second time, because you get the answer: "Oh I did that once. It's easy."

Jobs in this category that come to mind include: mowing the lawn, doing the dishes, weeding the garden and other such household chores.

In business and industry there are thousands of these projects in which a new broom will sweep clean but miss some of the corners the next time around.

As one who has not known his automobile license number since his youthful enthusiasm of 30 years ago and is never sure he even knows his own home telephone number, I intend to sit out the current squabble over the seven-digit telephone numbers and all-number calling. I'll have to settle for knowing my street address and let it go at that. At least I'll be able to find my house.

It came as a shock to read an article in the paper describing how to do such simple things as driving a nail, using a chisel and other elementary operations with hand tools. This advice was offered for softies who have gone overboard on power tools and forgotten how things used to be done in the Dark Ages. Are we that far away from 10 or 20 years ago? In case you are interested, you tap a small nail lightly with a wrist movement but hit a big nail harder, bending your elbow. That's what it said. No kidding.

The current standoff between Russia and the United States, with China voicing most of the belligerency, reminds me of when we were schoolboys and someone named China would say to someone named Russia: "You and him fight; I'll hold your coat."

One minor mystery I wonder about is why when I pick up a new word, geographical place name, or the name of some historical figure new to me, that name pops up again within a week. Instead of feeling superstitious about this I prefer to believe it is the result of being aware of the name for the first time; the name probably has been there off and on all my life. The latest instance involved Samuel Slater (1768-1835), an Englishman who came to America and rebuilt from memory English textile machinery which earned him the title "the father of American manufacturing." The day after I read about Slater in a book, I heard a radio program telling about his accomplishments.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Purely Personal

One of my favorite outriders has called in to say Spring is on the way. Says he saw his first teenage girl in short shorts and a tight sweater twirling a baton. Says he used to look for first robins but there's no thrill in robins.

I have been rediscovering radio while carrying on a woodwork painting project. Takes me back to the days when a fellow could listen while doing odd jobs around the house. I know now why the broadcasting people feel there always will be a place for radio, just as we newspaper people feel equally sure there always will be a place for people who like to read.

Enticing travel ads say England begins to enjoy Spring in February, and they make you wonder this year. Have they melted all the snow that fell over there this winter?

The thought may never have crossed her mind, but Princess Grace of Monaco invited comparison with our First Lady on that television tour of her living quarters—but, true to the end, I am still for Jackie, though conceding that Princess Grace is more photogenic.

The red velvet vest I was given for a Christmas present still has the tags on it. Its chances of being worn grow more remote day by day. Who would think of wearing a red velvet vest in the summertime, which will be here any month?

One of the most significant things that has happened in my generation is the change in the accepted viewpoint about our Puritan heritage, as reflected in the increasing use of the adjective "Puritanical" as a term of derision.

I think it's as ridiculous for people to refuse to watch television on the pretext it's not worth their time as it would be to refuse to read because some things that appear in print aren't worth their time, either.

Thinking back over the ready - openers available in conversational games with other people, I am grateful to these topics: my dogs, my sheep, the little tractor I use in Rosy Fingered Dawn, the little auto I go back and forth in and RFD itself. Without these, I don't know what I would have found safe to talk about the last decade.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

And now it's the "Walking Craze". I wonder if there is someone in our nation would start a "Prayer Craze".

What a difference, however, it would mean, as regards the crowds that would attend such a meeting. We are all weighed in the balance and found wanting in this respect. As a nation, we don't do enough walking, as we have too many automobiles. What our nation really needs, is to take time to be holy and listen obediently to what God is saying to us through His word, the Bible.

Whatever our point of view is regarding this matter is indeed important to each individual for we must all appear at the judgment bar of God to give an account of our stewardship to Him who gave His all for us.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I am writing this letter to all the people that was on the committee that circulated referendum petitions to get the city income tax put on the ballot last November election.

I find that the city auditor violated the state of Ohio election law.

Following is a section of the law that he violated.

"In determining the sufficiency of any petition such signatures as are found to be false or irregular shall be rejected, but no petition shall be invalidated in its entirety if one or more signatures or part - petitions are found to be false, irregular, or invalid, except when the number of valid signatures is, as a result thereof, less than that number required by law.

I will endorse this action to be taken. Trades and Labor Council should file a charge against the city auditor with the secretary of state and demand a special election.

Walking Craze

Americans who bravely set out on 50-mile hikes these days are fortified by encouragement from at least three presidents and a major poet.

Thomas Jefferson declared, "Of all exercises, walking is the best." Theodore Roosevelt, a hearty advocate of the strenuous life, ordered Marine officers to prove their fitness by making 50-mile marches.

When President John F. Kennedy challenged the Marine Corps to obey the 55-year-old order, he touched off a national hiking fad. Servicemen, college students, Boy Scouts and secretaries embarked on long-distance walks in the spirit of Whitman's lines:

Afoot and light-hearted, I take to the open road.

Healthy, free, the world before me.

Walking for health has a long history, the National Geographic Society says. Hippocrates prescribed walks to prevent emotional disturbances, hallucinations and expansion of the waistline. Pliny the Elder described walking as one of the "Medicines of the Will".

Walking for pleasure, however, is a relatively recent pastime. The character in Congreve's "Way of the World" who said, "I nauseate walking," spoke for most 18th-century pedestrians. Only a few eccentrics walked for the joy of it.

The ramblings of William Wordsworth and other literary men helped popularize walking, though for many years English walkers carried umbrellas to indicate they were gentlemen, not tramps.

The electric iron was the first electrical household appliance invented. It appeared on the American scene soon after the incandescent lamp.

An estimated 6,000 different languages are spoken throughout the world. A mere seven are spoken by half the human race.

Re-Enactment Planned

Gov. Rhodes Interested In Morgan Raid Event

Gov. James Rhodes has advised Columbiana County officials of his interest in the planned re-enactment of Confederate Gen. John Morgan's raid in July and said either he or a representative will attend.

In a letter to County Commissioner Walter Hunston, the governor declined an invitation to play the role of Gen. Morgan, citing the press of official business which prohibit many trips from Columbus.

The governor had been offered the part because of his known interest and knowledge of the Civil War era. He has written a number of articles and books on the subject, including a noted work on President Lincoln's wife.

Gov. Rhodes wrote, "I will do my best to be present or send a representative. You have my best wishes for a most memorable anniversary of Columbiana County's part in the Civil War."

Ed Pugh of Wellsville, directing plans for the re-enactment, said a meeting is planned at Louisville, Ky., shortly by Ohio officials and representatives of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. to determine scheduling of visits of the famed Civil War locomotive, "The General," later this year.

County plans call for use of the locomotive in the Morgan raid enactment which will be held in July when the locomotive will be available. Gen. Morgan and remnants of his cavalry raiders were captured near West Point in July 1863.

The Columbiana County Historical Association will meet March 14 at Lisbon to make further plans for the re-enactment.

Surplus Food Hits 295 Tons

LISBON — Over 295 tons of surplus food was distributed in 1962 in the Columbiana County's program, Welfare Director Robert Bycroft reported today.

Four different ways to make going more fun than getting there

You can see why one of America's favorite outdoor sports is driving Chevrolets, with four entirely different kinds of cars like these to choose from. There's the Jet-smooth Chevrolet, about as luxurious as you can go without going overboard in price (has lots of new lower upkeep features, too, like a flush-and-dry rocker panel ventilating system that helps remove rust-causing salt and slush); the new low-cost Chevy II, a good-looking, fun-loving car that would send any family packing; another perennial family favorite, the sporty Corvair, whose rear-engine traction will make you think that ice and snow are kid stuff; and for pure driving adventure, America's only homegrown sports car, Corvette—now in two all-new versions with looks that can stop traffic like a rush-hour blizzard. Chances are you've already picked your favorite. The next thing is to take the wheel at your Chevrolet dealer's. If that doesn't have you thinking of places to go, maybe you'd rather just have a ball around town!

Re-Enactment Planned

Gov. Rhodes Interested In Morgan Raid Event

Gov. James Rhodes has advised Columbiana County officials of his interest in the planned re-enactment of Confederate Gen. John Morgan's raid in July and said either he or a representative will attend.

In a letter to County Commissioner Walter Hunston, the governor declined an invitation to play the role of Gen. Morgan, citing the press of official business which prohibit many trips from Columbus.

The governor had been offered the part because of his known interest and knowledge of the Civil War era. He has written a number of articles and books on the subject, including a noted work on President Lincoln's wife.

Gov. Rhodes wrote, "I will do my best to be present or send a representative. You have my best wishes for a most memorable anniversary of Columbiana County's part in the Civil War."

Ed Pugh of Wellsville, directing plans for the re-enactment, said a meeting is planned at Louisville, Ky., shortly by Ohio officials and representatives of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. to determine scheduling of visits of the famed Civil War locomotive, "The General," later this year.

County plans call for use of the locomotive in the Morgan raid enactment which will be held in July when the locomotive will be available. Gen. Morgan and remnants of his cavalry raiders were captured near West Point in July 1863.

The Columbiana County Historical Association will meet March 14 at Lisbon to make further plans for the re-enactment.

Raid

close friends and relatives of the defendants.

Atty. Gilbert Bachmann of Wheeling, who said he represents all of the defendants but Bello, made a request that their bonds be lowered. He said they were "exorbitantly high."

Atty. Bachmann told the court that Teemer, owner and operator of the Jockey Club, was required to post a bond of only $5,000 upon his arrest in Florida, while bonds ranging from $10,000 to $20,000 were required of the other defendants.

Judge Paul set 10 a.m. Monday for arraignment.

THE MAXIMUM penalty for violation of the new federal gambling law is five years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

The 11 had posted bonds totalling $140,000 when they appeared before U. S. Commissioner Nell Moran at Wheeling. Teemer posted $20,000 bond before a U. S. commissioner in Ft. Lauderdale.

Bello was arrested in Steubenville yesterday and charged with violating a federal law against interstate travel "in aid in racketeering." The others were cited for interstate travel in conducting a gambling operation.

FBI agents reported that there were about 75 customers in the casino when the raid was staged.

They said most of them came from Western Pennsylvania. Others were from Ohio and West Virginia.

Driver Absolved In Traffic Count

Franklin Matchett, 45, of 1128 St. Clair Ave. was found not guilty today in Municipal Court on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance filed after a trafifc mishap Tuesday afternoon on Pennsylvania Ave. near Andrews St.

Matchett was cited by Patrolman Samuel E. Hays after his auto allegedly collided with the car of Rudy Lazich, 60, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, who was pulling onto the Pennsylvania Ave. from the parking lot at the Thorofare Market.

Patrolman Hayes, who did not witness the crash, said investigation showed Matchett's auto hit the Lazich auto behind the front door. Marks on the pavement showed Matchett's auto skidded about 40 feet, he said.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff dismissed the charge, commenting there was no proof in the absence of testimony from an eyewitness. He commended the officer for "a good job of investigation," but added: "Without the other driver, there is no case."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maria Melchior, 59, wife of Wagnerian tenor Lauritz Melchior, died on Wednesday. Mrs. Melchior was a former film star in Europe. She was born in Muehldorf, Bavaria, and married Melchior in 1927, two years after his first wife's death.

Mental Health Unit Meets

Constitution Drafted For Clinic Operation

LISBON — A constitution for an organization to operate a new mental health clinic to be established here was drafted by representatives of the Columbiana County Mental Health Association at a meeting Wednesday.

The proposed constitution, calling for a 42-member Board of Directors, will be submitted to a general meeting of the association March 13, Judge Louis Tobin announced.

If approved, 27 members of the board would be elected and 15 others chosen on the basis of their positions, and incorporation would follow.

After incorporation as a recognized group, the new organization would formally apply to the state for matching funds for founding the clinic.

About $15,900 has been received from a fund drive, and approximately twice this amount would be available from state sources, Judge Tobin said.

At yesterday's meeting were Atty. James Allison of East Palestine, Cornell Monda of Lisbon, Jack Pozenel of West Point, the Rev. T. G. S. Whitney of Salem and Tobin.

Some $4,500 was collected in the East Liverpool area, Miss Luella Thompson, city driver chairman, said, and anyone desiring to make a contribution or a second contribution under the 1963 charity program may send money to her at the First National Bank.

It was announced that a memorial Bible will be presented to the next of kin following the death of members of the local post.

In the absence of Mark Pike, chairman of the Sons of Legion, Coble reported that the boys were given permission to use the old gymnasium of Midland High School to play basketball. The boys are participating in a "penny-a-month" project for the Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh at Christmas.

U.S. Will Try 'Push Button' On Foreign Affairs Questions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is going to try to get background help on foreign affairs questions by push button.

Given a go-ahead by Secretary Dean Rusk after a visit to a Pentagon computer center last summer, the department's electronic answering system is slated to swing into operation on an experimental basis during the fiscal year that begins July 1.

So reports the latest State Department newsletter, a publication distributed to U.S. diplomats.

Successful demonstrations by the new information storing and retrieving machine, the newsletter said, points toward creation of "a system of mechanized support for researchers, desk officers, policy planners and decision makers who daily depend on substantive information and who frequently need it in a hurry."

Here's how the system is supposed to work:

Researchers comb through the department's voluminous stacks of political, military, economic, geographic, biographic and what-not information and decide what is important enough to be stored on the computer's memory tape. Then the information is indexed, or coded, to be given as an answer.

A simple question such as "What are the expressed views of Mr. X on subject Y?" produces a simple answer.

But questions asked too broadly can cause trouble, the newsletter warns. That's because the electronic selector, trying to cover all the angles on a fuzzy query, will tend to throw in a pile of only distantly related information.

Cold, Illness Cuts School Attendance

The bitter cold and illness cut into attendance at many area schools today.

Beaver Local District, where absenteeism was about 15 per cent Wednesday — due largely to illness — reported a fourth of the student body out of school today.

Absenteeism in East Liverpool schools is considerably higher than normal, reaching slightly above 22 per cent this morning.

The teaching ranks also have been severely hit with more than a tenth of the staff absent.

School officials reported 1,252 of the nearly 5,600 students were absent today along with 25 staff members, including Supt. Ralph W. Betts.

Most of the absences are in East End schools although East Junior High's list was down today to 104 from 150 a week ago.

Westgate junior high reported 217 absent along with five or six teachers while 206 are absent at the high school, officials said.

At Wellsville, 416 were absent today. The absenteeism list dropped Wednesday but went up again today, apparently due to the cold and snow.

There were 63 absent at the Elkton School, or about 30 per cent of the enrollment.

Lee Kirkland, high school principal, said a number of buses were late this morning because of the cold and snowy roads, but none of the vehicles was over 10 minutes behind schedule, according to a preliminary survey.

At Salineville, where absenteeism was as high as 31 per cent last week due to illnesses, there were about 25 per cent out of class today. Attendance had shown an improvement earlier this week, but declined today, apparently due to weather conditions.

Raid

close friends and relatives of the defendants.

Atty. Gilbert Bachmann of Wheeling, who said he represents all of the defendants but Bello, made a request that their bonds be lowered. He said they were "exorbitantly high."

Atty. Bachmann told the court that Teemer, owner and operator of the Jockey Club, was required to post a bond of only $5,000 upon his arrest in Florida, while bonds ranging from $10,000 to $20,000 were required of the other defendants.

Judge Paul set 10 a.m. Monday for arraignment.

THE MAXIMUM penalty for violation of the new federal gambling law is five years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

The 11 had posted bonds totalling $140,000 when they appeared before U. S. Commissioner Nell Moran at Wheeling. Teemer posted $20,000 bond before a U. S. commissioner in Ft. Lauderdale.

Bello was arrested in Steubenville yesterday and charged with violating a federal law against interstate travel "in aid in racketeering." The others were cited for interstate travel in conducting a gambling operation.

FBI agents reported that there were about 75 customers in the casino when the raid was staged.

They said most of them came from Western Pennsylvania. Others were from Ohio and West Virginia.

Driver Absolved In Traffic Count

Franklin Matchett, 45, of 1128 St. Clair Ave. was found not guilty today in Municipal Court on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance filed after a trafifc mishap Tuesday afternoon on Pennsylvania Ave. near Andrews St.

Matchett was cited by Patrolman Samuel E. Hays after his auto allegedly collided with the car of Rudy Lazich, 60, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, who was pulling onto the Pennsylvania Ave. from the parking lot at the Thorofare Market.

Patrolman Hayes, who did not witness the crash, said investigation showed Matchett's auto hit the Lazich auto behind the front door. Marks on the pavement showed Matchett's auto skidded about 40 feet, he said.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff dismissed the charge, commenting there was no proof in the absence of testimony from an eyewitness. He commended the officer for "a good job of investigation," but added: "Without the other driver, there is no case."

Mental Health Unit Meets

Constitution Drafted For Clinic Operation

LISBON — A constitution for an organization to operate a new mental health clinic to be established here was drafted by representatives of the Columbiana County Mental Health Association at a meeting Wednesday.

The proposed constitution, calling for a 42-member Board of Directors, will be submitted to a general meeting of the association March 13, Judge Louis Tobin announced.

If approved, 27 members of the board would be elected and 15 others chosen on the basis of their positions, and incorporation would follow.

After incorporation as a recognized group, the new organization would formally apply to the state for matching funds for founding the clinic.

About $15,900 has been received from a fund drive, and approximately twice this amount would be available from state sources, Judge Tobin said.

At yesterday's meeting were Atty. James Allison of East Palestine, Cornell Monda of Lisbon, Jack Pozenel of West Point, the Rev. T. G. S. Whitney of Salem and Tobin.

Some $4,500 was collected in the East Liverpool area, Miss Luella Thompson, city driver chairman, said, and anyone desiring to make a contribution or a second contribution under the 1963 charity program may send money to her at the First National Bank.

U.S. Will Try 'Push Button' On Foreign Affairs Questions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is going to try to get background help on foreign affairs questions by push button.

Given a go-ahead by Secretary Dean Rusk after a visit to a Pentagon computer center last summer, the department's electronic answering system is slated to swing into operation on an experimental basis during the fiscal year that begins July 1.

So reports the latest State Department newsletter, a publication distributed to U.S. diplomats.

Successful demonstrations by the new information storing and retrieving machine, the newsletter said, points toward creation of "a system of mechanized support for researchers, desk officers, policy planners and decision makers who daily depend on substantive information and who frequently need it in a hurry."

Here's how the system is supposed to work:

Researchers comb through the department's voluminous stacks of political, military, economic, geographic, biographic and what-not information and decide what is important enough to be stored on the computer's memory tape. Then the information is indexed, or coded, to be given as an answer.

A simple question such as "What are the expressed views of Mr. X on subject Y?" produces a simple answer.

But questions asked too broadly can cause trouble, the newsletter warns. That's because the electronic selector, trying to cover all the angles on a fuzzy query, will tend to throw in a pile of only distantly related information.

Cold, Illness Cuts School Attendance

The bitter cold and illness cut into attendance at many area schools today.

Beaver Local District, where absenteeism was about 15 per cent Wednesday — due largely to illness — reported a fourth of the student body out of school today.

Absenteeism in East Liverpool schools is considerably higher than normal, reaching slightly above 22 per cent this morning.

The teaching ranks also have been severely hit with more than a tenth of the staff absent.

School officials reported 1,252 of the nearly 5,600 students were absent today along with 25 staff members, including Supt. Ralph W. Betts.

Most of the absences are in East End schools although East Junior High's list was down today to 104 from 150 a week ago.

Westgate junior high reported 217 absent along with five or six teachers while 206 are absent at the high school, officials said.

At Wellsville, 416 were absent today. The absenteeism list dropped Wednesday but went up again today, apparently due to the cold and snow.

There were 63 absent at the Elkton School, or about 30 per cent of the enrollment.

Lee Kirkland, high school principal, said a number of buses were late this morning because of the cold and snowy roads, but none of the vehicles was over 10 minutes behind schedule, according to a preliminary survey.

At Salineville, where absenteeism was as high as 31 per cent last week due to illnesses, there were about 25 per cent out of class today. Attendance had shown an improvement earlier this week, but declined today, apparently due to weather conditions.

Flare Stimulates Hunt For Ship That Vanished

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—An unidentified flare and flotsam lettered "Sulphur Queen" stimulated a search south of Key West today for traces and possible survivors of a freighter that vanished after sailing Feb. 2 with 39 men aboard.

The flare was seen Wednesday night in the Straits of Florida, between Key West and Cuba. The Coast Guard had no assurance that the light had anything to do with the 523-foot ocean vessel—or with a private plane that disappeared Wednesday.

A patrol boat checked out the flare and reported it found nothing. A two-engine Beechcraft Bonanza listed only as "Louder" was overdue on a flight from Miami to Great Inagua, Bahamas, and officials thought the ocean flare might have come from the plane.

The patrol boat's flare mission delayed its trip to Miami with articles recovered from the sea Wednesday and believed to be from the missing freighter Marine Sulphur Queen.

Miami Coast Guard Search and Rescue Headquarters said it was informed "Sulphur Queen" was lettered on a life jacket and an oil can. The life jacket was found in the gulfstream about 14 miles southeast of Key West.

The freighter, laden with 15,000 tons of molten sulphur, left Beaumont, Tex., Feb. 2 for Norfolk, Va. A crewman sent a personal radio message the next day giving the ship's position as 230 miles southeast of New Orleans. She was never heard from again.

The business was conducted at the afternoon session. Devotions were led by members of the Asbury Club.

The county program planning will be March 20 at the Swaney Library at New Cumberland.

A representative from the Weirton Library spoke on "Enriched Living" at the morning session. Lunch was served at noon.

The next council meeting is May 15 at the Grange Hall. Mrs. Rudy Strauss, county centennial chairman, said a past presidents' tea will be held.

Flare Stimulates Hunt For Ship That Vanished

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—An unidentified flare and flotsam lettered "Sulphur Queen" stimulated a search south of Key West today for traces and possible survivors of a freighter that vanished after sailing Feb. 2 with 39 men aboard.

The flare was seen Wednesday night in the Straits of Florida, between Key West and Cuba. The Coast Guard had no assurance that the light had anything to do with the 523-foot ocean vessel—or with a private plane that disappeared Wednesday.

A patrol boat checked out the flare and reported it found nothing. A two-engine Beechcraft Bonanza listed only as "Louder" was overdue on a flight from Miami to Great Inagua, Bahamas, and officials thought the ocean flare might have come from the plane.

The patrol boat's flare mission delayed its trip to Miami with articles recovered from the sea Wednesday and believed to be from the missing freighter Marine Sulphur Queen.

Miami Coast Guard Search and Rescue Headquarters said it was informed "Sulphur Queen" was lettered on a life jacket and an oil can. The life jacket was found in the gulfstream about 14 miles southeast of Key West.

The freighter, laden with 15,000 tons of molten sulphur, left Beaumont, Tex., Feb. 2 for Norfolk, Va. A crewman sent a personal radio message the next day giving the ship's position as 230 miles southeast of New Orleans. She was never heard from again.

Ohio View Church Women See Films During Program

Two films highlighted the meeting Tuesday of the Women of the Church of the Ohio View Lutheran Church in the Fellowship Hall.

Following the opening devotion topic, "The Greatest Thing In the World," by Mrs. Joseph Fiediga, the color films, "On the Rim of Tomorrow," filmed in Okinawa, Korea, Hong Kong and Taiwan, and a World Action film, "Date With Revolution," filmed in Africa, were screened by Robert Cowan. Mrs. Cowan, president, read introductions to both.

Mrs. Homer Gifford was accompanist for hymn singing and Mrs. Steven Farkas of Ohio View, formerly of Wellend, Ont., and Hungary, was a guest.

Mrs. Charles Newcomb announced the Beaver Valley Auxiliary of the Lutheran Service Society will meet Monday at 8 p. m. at Christ Lutheran Church, Baden, when a film on Mental Health, "Gentle Warrior," will be screened. Members planning to attend are to contact Mrs. Newcomb.

Mrs. Cowan announced World Day of Prayer will be held by the Midland Area Council of United Church Women March 1 from 10:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. at First Presbyterian Church in Midland. The theme will be "More Than Conquerors." Members attending are to bring a sack lunch. Tea, coffee and salad will be furnished. Mrs. Gilbert Popp, council president, will preside.

Plans were made to serve as hostesses for the Midland Order of Rainbow for Girls at a service March 31 at the Ohio View church. Mrs. Paul was named chairman.

Mrs. James N. Servey received the offering and lead a discussion on thank-offering. Purchase of Lutheran Church Women Guide manuals for each member was approved.

It was also agreed to retain present officers for the duration of the year, due to the reorganization in the new LCW. The nominating committee, elected at the last meeting, was authorized to present the slate new officers in September.

Mrs. Alfred Stewart of Hope Lutheran Church, Tuscarawas Rd., will present a book review and Mrs. Gifford the devotions at the meeting March 19 at 8:15 p.m. in the hall. Mrs. Gifford and Mrs. Laco Shreve will be hostesses.

The altar care committee announced for March includes Mrs. Shreve, chairman; Mrs. Servey, Mrs. Edward Inglefield, Mrs. Charles Moore and Mrs. Miles Zetz.

Mrs. William Stiblo gave the thank - offering prayer and Mrs. Fiediga and Mrs. Paul were assisted by Mrs. John Madish in serving refreshments.

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Skepticism Termed Challenge For Dieters

Success or failure in reducing depends largely on how you think and feel about this business of taking off weight — with or without the moral support of the family.

Ida Jean Kain

To get the picture, let's compare two overweights, both 30 pounds over. They want to be rid of the extra pounds and to slip smoothly into dresses two sizes smaller. They start dieting.

But one overweight seriously doubts that she can stay on a diet. She's tried before and after a couple of weeks gone back to her old, fattening ways of eating. Also, her husband, having been through these unsuccessful sessions, is mildly derisive of this new attempt. That intensifies her own doubts and further weakens her will power.

FINALLY, SINCE no one likes failure, she may rationalize that extra weight runs in the family, anyway, and that it's foolish to try to go against nature.

Now, our other overweight, with the same amount to lose, diets with an entirely different attitude. She has the support of her doctor as well as her husband. The former has assured her that reducing would improve her health and renew her zip and zest and the latter has volunteered to help by going without his accustomed desserts — than which there is no better vote of confidence.

This moral support was sorely needed since this overweight had a difficult time losing. One week went by, then 10 days, and not a pound off!

But, since she had not deviated from the diet, she recognized that she had to be losing weight but must be storing water in the tissues and that this condition would right itself and the weight loss show up on the scales. It did!

On the 16th day, the weight indicator plunged eight pounds and her husband took her out to dinner to celebrate, which she did by sticking within the bounds of her diet, and next day she was back on regular reducing fare.

It is easy to see why this overweight succeeded while the other failed.

BUT LET'S GET one point straight, self - pity is far more demoralizing than skepticism — which you probably have invited —on the part of your family.

Instead of blaming them for their skepticism, why not treat it as a challenge and show them!

Send a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Rhodes Reacts To Make Spending Equal Income

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A team of public accountants says Ohio owes $83 million more than it has in the treasury. They add that Ohio has been spending at the rate of $52 million a year in excess of its income.

James A. Rhodes, Ohio's new Republican governor, has reacted to the financial bind by ordering an across - the - board cut to the point where spending equals income.

In office since Jan. 14, Rhodes has laid off about 5,000 of the estimated 60,000 state employes. He concedes the personnel slash may not yet be deep enough.

In fact, he has indicated strongly that thousands of additional state employes could lose their jobs under a reorganization bill being drafted in his office for legislative action.

"What we have in mind is reorganization for economy in state government," he said. Some reports circulated that as many as 19,000 state jobs would be stripped of civil service protection, but Rhodes termed the figure inaccurate and said there could be no estimate at this time.

While Rhodes and his finance director, Richard L. Krabach, scan the billion-dollar-a-year financial program for spots where more cuts can be made, there is resentment from those who have been fired.

And there were questions raised by non - political persons who learned that some state employes were re-hired after it was discovered their work was essential.

Most of those dismissed thus far were nearing the end of a 120-day probationary period — and some were Republicans.

Rhodes scored heavily in his election campaign with a plan for creating 200,000 new jobs. Now, with the firing already mounting into the thousands, there's been some comment that the governor will have to up that figure a bit.

All of which seems to perturb Rhodes not at all.

He spent the last 10 years as state auditor guarding the taxpayers' dollars. Before that he spent a dozen years as Columbus city auditor and mayor. He has a theory which he receited often in last year's gubernatorial campaign: "When you elect a governor, you elect management. What I am doing now in state government is exactly what you would do if you were running a business this size. It is just that simple."

DiSalle, four years ago, won enactment of a $155-million-a-year tax increase program. He found even that amount less than adequate, but two years ago a Republican legislature refused to levy further taxes.

DiSalle, former Toledo mayor and one-time price administrator under President Harry S. Truman, always said candidly that he was more interested in seeing that state wards got their monthly assistance checks than in seeing that distillers were paid for liquor sold to Ohio's state-operated liquor stores system.

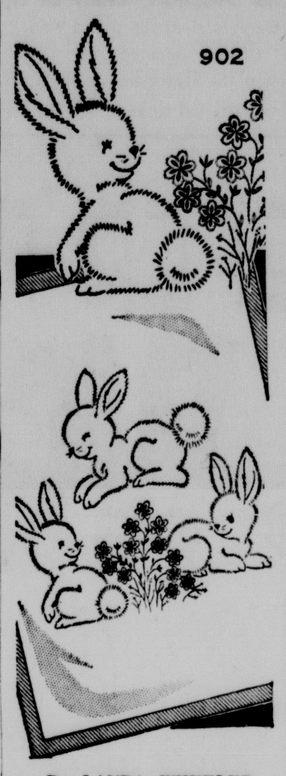

As a result, about half of what Ohio owes now is for whisky already sold to the state stores.

Rhodes insists his wide-swinging payroll scythe has not interfered with state care in such sensitive areas as mental health.

Democrats are saying that the Rhodes new broom is only sweeping out Democrats to make room for Republicans. They term it a return to "jungle politics."

Rhodes, who is 53, says, "All I want to be — and all I've ever wanted to be—is a good governor."

Ohio Power Sets Marks In Sales, Revenue, Costs

CANTON — The Ohio Power Co. in 1962 established new records in power sales and revenues and at the same time paid out the highest amount in its history for the cost of conducting its business, according to A. N. Prentice of Canton, vice president and general manager of the company.

Significant achievements were recorded in several phases of the utility's operation, including one of the best safety records ever compiled.

During the year, the company sold 14.4-billion kilowatt-hours of electricity and received gross revenues totaling $146,438,165. Power sales were up 9.3 per cent over the previous year and revenues were $9.3 million higher than in 1961.

"Sales to our industrial customers again accounted for more than half our yearly killowatt - hour sales total," Prentice said. "Customers in this category purchased nearly 8½ billion kilowatt - hours for a gain of 8.7 per cent over the year before."

Both residential and commercial classifications of customers showed gains in power purchases during 1962. The domestic consumers purchase of 1.9-billion kilowatt - hours of electricity represents a gain of 6.6 per cent over 1961, while commercial customers used 847-million kilowatt - hours for a 9.6 per cent gain.

The company's average residential user of electricity increased his annual consumption to a record 4,597 kilowatt - hours during the year. And the average price for each kilowatt - hour of electricity used in the home was lower in 1962 than in 1961. The average cost of 2.17 cents per kilowatt-hour is the lowest in Ohio Power's history. The average price 20 years ago was 3.46 cents and 30 years ago it was 5.65 cents.

"This decrease in the average cost of a kilowatt - hour used in the home has been made possible by greatly - increased usage of electricity," Prentice said.

Ohio Power last year added 1,374 electrically - heated homes to its lines, bringing the total number of installations to nearly 9,000. Of those added last year, one-third were older homes converted from a fuel - fired heating system to electric heating.

Also during the year, the company added 67 new total electric commercal and industrial establishments to its lines, bringing the territory - wide total to 208.

Referring to the company's industrial and area development activities, Prentice reported that 28 new industrial operations were located in the Ohio Power service area during the past year.

Again last year, taxes — local, state and federal — comprised the largest item of expense in Ohio Power's operating costs, the general manager stated.

This past year Ohio Power paid $6,176,000 in real and personal property taxes to the state of Ohio and 70 per cent of that amount went back to individual school districts in the company's territory for use in expanding and maintaining hundreds of primary and secondary schools.

Second biggest item of expense was the $26½ million spent for coal burned in the company's power plants for the generation of electric power.

Ohio Power Sets Marks In Sales, Revenue, Costs

CANTON — The Ohio Power Co. in 1962 established new records in power sales and revenues and at the same time paid out the highest amount in its history for the cost of conducting its business, according to A. N. Prentice of Canton, vice president and general manager of the company.

Significant achievements were recorded in several phases of the utility's operation, including one of the best safety records ever compiled.

"Sales to our industrial customers again accounted for more than half our yearly killowatt - hour sales total," Prentice said. "Customers in this category purchased nearly 8½ billion kilowatt - hours for a gain of 8.7 per cent over the year before."

Both residential and commercial classifications of customers showed gains in power purchases during 1962. The domestic consumers purchase of 1.9-billion kilowatt - hours of electricity represents a gain of 6.6 per cent over 1961, while commercial customers used 847-million kilowatt - hours for a 9.6 per cent gain.

The company's average residential user of electricity increased his annual consumption to a record 4,597 kilowatt - hours during the year. And the average price for each kilowatt - hour of electricity used in the home was lower in 1962 than in 1961. The average cost of 2.17 cents per kilowatt-hour is the lowest in Ohio Power's history. The average price 20 years ago was 3.46 cents and 30 years ago it was 5.65 cents.

"This decrease in the average cost of a kilowatt - hour used in the home has been made possible by greatly - increased usage of electricity," Prentice said.

Referring to the company's industrial and area development activities, Prentice reported that 28 new industrial operations were located in the Ohio Power service area during the past year.

Again last year, taxes — local, state and federal — comprised the largest item of expense in Ohio Power's operating costs, the general manager stated.

This past year Ohio Power paid $6,176,000 in real and personal property taxes to the state of Ohio and 70 per cent of that amount went back to individual school districts in the company's territory for use in expanding and maintaining hundreds of primary and secondary schools.

Second biggest item of expense was the $26½ million spent for coal burned in the company's power plants for the generation of electric power.

Out Of The Air

TV Obsessed With Physical Defects

All but the most morbid TV viewers must have had it by now with what seems like a continuous parade of the physically handicapped crossing their screen. It's a poor week on TV when we don't see at least one paraplegic, deaf mute or some unfortunate with an inoperable brain tumor.

Hal Humphrey

Obviously writers lean toward these incapacitated heroes because from them they get a built-in conflict without too much effort.

-:-

IT IS EASIER to write about a mute and his struggle to adjust than, say, an unemployed atomic scientist who has been tabbed a poor security risk by our government.

Today's TV writers know, too, that sponsors are allergeic to controversy.

Ole Miss, and more recently Clemson College, have been the scenes of some high drama, but these haven't inspired any writers to build stories for TV around them—for the simple reason that no one is likely to buy such fare.

But take a yarn about a deaf mute who falls insanely in love with his beautiful, sexy young teacher and tires to kill her boy friend in a climactic rage. Put Peter Faulk and Carol Lynley in the roles, and let them act up a storm, and you're better off than the producer of "Queen for a Day."

ON A SO-CALLED anthology TV series an occasional story like that is excusable, and we know that on "Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey" we are bound to be exposed to people with a variety of physical infirmities. But on a "Route 66" or "Stoney Burke," it's silly.

A recent "Empire" had Robert Vaughn playing an Army captain who suddenly became a paraplegic as a result of a training accident. Vaughn and Terry Moore had a chance to emote all over the hospital, but as a regular viewer of the series wrote to me later, "I watch 'Empire' because I'm fascinated by the industrial ranch empires of the modern West, but if I wanted to see a cripple, I'd turn to 'Dr. Kildare.' I felt gypped."

ON "STONEY BURKE" we've had a cowboy with a brain tumor and another with a paralyzed hand. Somebody surely is about to write one for a rodeo horse who is gradually growing blind, but insists on staying in the rodeo business because he loves Stoney Burke and is jealous of a palomino who has 20-20 vision.

What gets so tiresome about these clinical soap operas are the cheap theatrics employed by the actors, directors and writers. The dialogue in most of them must sound like a grim farce to anyone similarly afflicted and watching his so-called counterpart on TV.

Actors usually take such roles so they can climb the walls and generally masticate the scenery with what they feel is a legitimate license afforded them by the writer and director. They are encouraged by fans who frequently mistake these protechnics for honest - to - goodness acting and praise them afterward for "a masterful performance."

WELL, I MUCH prefer performances like those I saw recently by Joan Fontaine and Gary Merrill in an Alfred Hitchcock TV drama called "The Paragon" from a story by Rebecca West.

She was a malicious do-gooder who wanted to run everyone else's life, and he was the long-suffering husband who, having failed to reason with his wife, decided there was only one thing left to do. No, he didn't bungle the job and leave her a cripple, either!

Split Reported In Exploratory Talks On Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western allies are reported split on pursuing a new round of exploratory talks with the Soviet Union on Berlin.

While the United States takes the view that Soviet overtures for a fresh start should not be rebuffed, high diplomatic informants said Wednesday night, France remains opposed to another session with the Soviets. Britain and West Germany, the sources said, are supporting the U.S. position.

Talks between the United States and the Soviet Union on the divided German city have been stalled since last spring. Earlier this month, the Soviets proposed a new attempt be made to try to find a solution to the Berlin problem. The United States immediately consulted with its three allies.

The consultations are still going on in Washington with Llewellyn Thompson, the State Department's ambassador at large, presiding.

Bringing Up A Family

Firmness Needed To Halt Quarreling

Some verbal bouts between older children can have good values for them, especially when they are pretty well matched. But there come times when such are intolerable for the parents. A schoolteacher mother writes from Texas: "I have read your column with interest for many years and it has been a source of help and inspiration to me. "I have four children, a boy twelve years of age, a girl eight years old, a boy four years old and a little girl two.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"I HAVE ALWAYS read to them, played with them and have disciplined them. But my eight-year-old girl and the older boy quarrel so much. Both are good students, each has his and her own interest and playmates and spending money.

"Though I can keep some of the quarreling down, I find myself tense and nervous and saying sharp words to them.

"I teach school, but still spend time with each child and do not feel anyone is neglected. My husband is kind and considerate. I feel that the fault is mine, knowing I should never become angered and be tired or cross, but do not know how to stop it.

"I love each one dearly and they are good children and obedient, but can't be together five minutes without quarreling. Where have I failed?"

MY REPLY: I am sure you are too hard on yourself. Having taught many years myself, I know it is not always easy to feel good-natured and relaxed at the end of a school day.

When these two older children quarrel so much that you can't stand it any longer, just separate them for half an hour or more, without trying to place the blame.

Unless you see some results from curbing the quarreling, especially at mealtime, require one of the older children to take turns with the other at eating his or her meal in the kitchen.

IT WOULD BE fine if you could persuade one of these older children to read to the younger ones.

When they must be disciplined, be very decisive. You might then send the oldest child to his room for a period.

The girls and the younger children might profit most from having to sit in a chair, unamused, where you can see them, for a definite period of 15 to 30 minutes.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "Quarreling and Fighting by Children", may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Lausche Accused Of Ignorance About Mediation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., unhappy over remarks made by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, says the Ohio senator has shown "gross ignorance of the whole mediation process."

Morse, in a Senate speech Wednesday, charged Lausche with making an insulting speech implying that Morse was a biased mediator in the settlement of the docks strike.

Lausche quickly replied that he had meant no aspersion on the Oregon senator's integrity but only contended that "we are all burdened with our predispositions."

Morse was chairman of a mediation group appointed by President Kennedy which arranged the settlement of the recent docks strike.

Lausche had told the Senate Tuesday that Morse had ideologies and predispositions which "made it impossible for him to be what one might call an impartial arbitrator."

Lausche also contended that nothing was done about the issue of featherbedding by the striking dockworkers.

Morse told the Senate:

"I challenge him to go to the litigants (the dockworkers and shipowners) and find out if they feel they had fair treatment."

Victim Of Man-Dog Holdup, Man Claims

Underwood, 47, a laborer, told police:

As he strolled near the police station Wednesday, a car pulled up. A tall, blond youth got out with a large white dog. The man asked him for a match. When Underwood produced it, the stranger ordered his dog to "watch him."

Ohioan, 74, Killed In Skidding Accident

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —George F. Garn, 74, of Bettsville, was killed Wednesday when his panel truck skidded on icy U. S. 6, five miles west of here and crashed into a tractor-trailer.

Split Reported In Exploratory Talks On Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western allies are reported split on pursuing a new round of exploratory talks with the Soviet Union on Berlin.

While the United States takes the view that Soviet overtures for a fresh start should not be rebuffed, high diplomatic informants said Wednesday night, France remains opposed to another session with the Soviets. Britain and West Germany, the sources said, are supporting the U.S. position.

Talks between the United States and the Soviet Union on the divided German city have been stalled since last spring. Earlier this month, the Soviets proposed a new attempt be made to try to find a solution to the Berlin problem. The United States immediately consulted with its three allies.

The consultations are still going on in Washington with Llewellyn Thompson, the State Department's ambassador at large, presiding.

Ohioan Appointed

ROME (AP) — Robert Gordon Edwards of Ashland, Ohio, has been appointed vice president of Embassy Pictures, in charge of the American movie firm's European operations. He has been continental publicity manager for embassy since August 1961.

New Hampshire was the first state to declare its independence from Great Britain and adopt a constitution.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Firmness Needed To Halt Quarreling

Some verbal bouts between older children can have good values for them, especially when they are pretty well matched. But there come times when such are intolerable for the parents. A schoolteacher mother writes from Texas: "I have read your column with interest for many years and it has been a source of help and inspiration to me. "I have four children, a boy twelve years of age, a girl eight years old, a boy four years old and a little girl two.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"I HAVE ALWAYS read to them, played with them and have disciplined them. But my eight-year-old girl and the older boy quarrel so much. Both are good students, each has his and her own interest and playmates and spending money.

"Though I can keep some of the quarreling down, I find myself tense and nervous and saying sharp words to them.

"I teach school, but still spend time with each child and do not feel anyone is neglected. My husband is kind and considerate. I feel that the fault is mine, knowing I should never become angered and be tired or cross, but do not know how to stop it.

"I love each one dearly and they are good children and obedient, but can't be together five minutes without quarreling. Where have I failed?"

MY REPLY: I am sure you are too hard on yourself. Having taught many years myself, I know it is not always easy to feel good-natured and relaxed at the end of a school day.

When these two older children quarrel so much that you can't stand it any longer, just separate them for half an hour or more, without trying to place the blame.

Unless you see some results from curbing the quarreling, especially at mealtime, require one of the older children to take turns with the other at eating his or her meal in the kitchen.

IT WOULD BE fine if you could persuade one of these older children to read to the younger ones.

When they must be disciplined, be very decisive. You might then send the oldest child to his room for a period.

The girls and the younger children might profit most from having to sit in a chair, unamused, where you can see them, for a definite period of 15 to 30 minutes.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "Quarreling and Fighting by Children", may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Lausche Accused Of Ignorance About Mediation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., unhappy over remarks made by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, says the Ohio senator has shown "gross ignorance of the whole mediation process."

Morse, in a Senate speech Wednesday, charged Lausche with making an insulting speech implying that Morse was a biased mediator in the settlement of the docks strike.

Lausche quickly replied that he had meant no aspersion on the Oregon senator's integrity but only contended that "we are all burdened with our predispositions."

Morse was chairman of a mediation group appointed by President Kennedy which arranged the settlement of the recent docks strike.

Lausche had told the Senate Tuesday that Morse had ideologies and predispositions which "made it impossible for him to be what one might call an impartial arbitrator."

Lausche also contended that nothing was done about the issue of featherbedding by the striking dockworkers.

Morse told the Senate:

"I challenge him to go to the litigants (the dockworkers and shipowners) and find out if they feel they had fair treatment."

Victim Of Man-Dog Holdup, Man Claims

Underwood, 47, a laborer, told police:

As he strolled near the police station Wednesday, a car pulled up. A tall, blond youth got out with a large white dog. The man asked him for a match. When Underwood produced it, the stranger ordered his dog to "watch him."

Ohioan, 74, Killed In Skidding Accident

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —George F. Garn, 74, of Bettsville, was killed Wednesday when his panel truck skidded on icy U. S. 6, five miles west of here and crashed into a tractor-trailer.

Liquor Group Bill Changed By Committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate Liquor Committee has junked most of the controversial provisions of a bill to create a three - member liquor control commission to replace a four-member board.

The committee sent to the Senate floor a substitute bill which contains only the bare bones of the original proposal sponsored by the Republican Rhodes administration.

After the committee finished chopping, pruning and restoring the legal language of the present law, only these two major new features remained:

— A three-member commission instead of a four-member board.

— Authority for appeals from commission decisions to the 10th District Court of Appeals (Franklin County) instead of Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

Stripped away are such controversial provisions as:

—Sole authority in the commission chairman to set penalty for violators of liquor laws and regulations.

—Authority to modify penalties at any time after assessment of a penalty.

—A provision that all commission members be attorneys. (The new bill sticks with the present provision that only the chairman must be a lawyer.)

—Authority for one member of the board to sit as a hearing examiner in any case involving a violation by a liquor permit holder.

When Sen. Fred L. Hoffman, R-Hamilton, questioned the advisability of permitting appeals to go directly to the appellate court, Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-Hancock, said he had discussed changes in the measures with Gov. James A. Rhodes and that the governor asked that the new appeals procedure remain unchanged.

"The governor feels," Guyer told the committee, "that if anything serious is wrong with the appellate procedure, it can be corrected in the House."

The main purpose in changing the four-member bipartisan board —two Republicans and two Democrats—to a three - member commission is to avoid deadlocks over penalties which have the effect of permitting violators to escape punishment.

Both houses plan to wind up their seventh legislative week today without any important action scheduled in either house. The lawmakers will return to Columbus Monday evening.

The two houses received another 33 bills Wednesday. One of the prime ones was a House bill to legalize concession games at fairs. They were outlawed a couple of years ago as gambling by former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy.

The measure would take such games out of the gambling category if there is an element of skill required to win a prize. The games are the financial backbone of some fairs.

McFarland Airs Kiwanis Service

Chester Kiwanis Club members heard a talk on the challenge of service to community and individuals by R. M. McFarland Tuesday night when he also played a recording of a talk by Donald Johnston, president of the first Kiwanis Club organized at Detroit.

McFarland, principal at Chester High School, spoke on the responsibilities of members, the duties of the club, its past accomplishments and its ideals.

McFarland was introduced by Harry Comm, program chairman.

Eugene Seeley, secretary-treasurer, reported $523 has been collected in the club-sponsored March of Dimes. Alvin Fineman, drive chairman, said the report is not complete.

Raymond Stevens, vice president, was in charge.

Liquor Group Bill Changed By Committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate Liquor Committee has junked most of the controversial provisions of a bill to create a three - member liquor control commission to replace a four-member board.

The committee sent to the Senate floor a substitute bill which contains only the bare bones of the original proposal sponsored by the Republican Rhodes administration.

After the committee finished chopping, pruning and restoring the legal language of the present law, only these two major new features remained:

— A three-member commission instead of a four-member board.

— Authority for appeals from commission decisions to the 10th District Court of Appeals (Franklin County) instead of Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

Stripped away are such controversial provisions as:

—Sole authority in the commission chairman to set penalty for violators of liquor laws and regulations.

—Authority to modify penalties at any time after assessment of a penalty.

—A provision that all commission members be attorneys. (The new bill sticks with the present provision that only the chairman must be a lawyer.)

—Authority for one member of the board to sit as a hearing examiner in any case involving a violation by a liquor permit holder.

When Sen. Fred L. Hoffman, R-Hamilton, questioned the advisability of permitting appeals to go directly to the appellate court, Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-Hancock, said he had discussed changes in the measures with Gov. James A. Rhodes and that the governor asked that the new appeals procedure remain unchanged.

"The governor feels," Guyer told the committee, "that if anything serious is wrong with the appellate procedure, it can be corrected in the House."

The main purpose in changing the four-member bipartisan board —two Republicans and two Democrats—to a three - member commission is to avoid deadlocks over penalties which have the effect of permitting violators to escape punishment.

Both houses plan to wind up their seventh legislative week today without any important action scheduled in either house. The lawmakers will return to Columbus Monday evening.

The two houses received another 33 bills Wednesday. One of the prime ones was a House bill to legalize concession games at fairs. They were outlawed a couple of years ago as gambling by former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy.

The measure would take such games out of the gambling category if there is an element of skill required to win a prize. The games are the financial backbone of some fairs.

McFarland was introduced by Harry Comm, program chairman.

Eugene Seeley, secretary-treasurer, reported $523 has been collected in the club-sponsored March of Dimes. Alvin Fineman, drive chairman, said the report is not complete.

Talks Continue In New York's Paper Blackout

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore W. Kheel, Mayor Robert F. Wagner's chief adviser in efforts to end the 76-day-old newspaper blackout, continues meeting with subcommittees of publishers and representatives of nonstriking unions today.

The Photoengravers Union, one of the nine unions whose members have been idled by the printers' strike against four of the city's nine major newspapers, was first on today's agenda.

Subcommittees of the publishers and of five craft unions met with Kheel for five hours Wednesday.

Kheel said the sessions dealt with the working hours for the pressmen, stereotypers, mailers, deliverers and paper handlers.

Kheel described the talks as information sessions, rather than negotiations.

Wagner, who has been seeking to end the newspaper blackout for almost a month, was out of the city Wednesday.

The talks did not include striking Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union, because the local's demand for a shorter work week already had been made plain to the publishers and the mediators.

Richman told police Millward's car apparently drifted downgrade from a parking place. Millward told officers he parked his car at 8:30, setting the emergency brake and turning the front wheels toward the curb.

Senator Denies Racial Prejudice

Powell Accuses Williams Of Bias In Property Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell has accused Sen. John J. Williams of racial bias. But Williams says how government money is spent—not race —is the issue in his attack on the Negro congressman.

Powell accused Williams, R-Del., at a news conference Wednesday of following "the Hitler concept" in purchasing property that the New York Democrat said is under a restriction limiting resale to "Aryans." Asked if he felt there was a racial motive to Williams' criticism, Powell declared emphatically, "yes."

The senator swung back at Powell Wednesday night. "I never have and never will refer to any man's race, religion or nationality in discussing a case on the Senate floor or off it," Williams told a newsman.

"I do intend to see that anyone, whether a member of Congress or not, gives a proper accounting of how government money is spent," he said. "We're going to keep right on the issue and will not be diverted."

In his session with newsmen, Powell said Williams has voted consistently against civil rights. He also distributed an excerpt from a property deed to a house Powell said Williams bought in 1952 in Rehobeth Beach, Del.

According to the excerpt, the deed contained a restriction against the sale or leasing of the property "to any person not of the Aryan (Nordic) race."

Reached Wednesday night at his home, Williams said he bought the property in 1952, still lives there and has no intention of leaving. He said he has never examined the deed and has no idea if it contains a restriction.

But even if it does, Williams said, it would have no effect because the Supreme Court has outlawed such provisions.

The battle began Feb. 5 when Williams charged in a Senate speech that the government was "shoveling out" money for activities sponsored or promoted by Powell. He also accused Powell of income tax delinquency and criticized him for using State Department funds for a European trip last summer with two women staff members.

Powell, who was in Puerto Rico when Williams leveled his blast, fired back Wednesday before a battery of newsmen. He said a Williams charge that the Housing and Home Finance Administration had lent Powell or groups associated with him $10.8 million for three housing projects was incorrect.

The HHA deals in mortage insurance, not in loans, Powell said, and the transactions Williams referred to were handled by a foundation he started in honor of his father. He said he got out of the foundation a year ago.

"I have always paid my taxes promptly," said Powell. The years in question, he said, are the subject of pending court action and it cannot be determined what, if anything, he owes until the court decides.

As for last summer's trip—according to Williams a "European vacation for Mr. Powell and two lady friends where he attended all the night spots of the European capitals"—Powell said the women with him were staff members of his House Education Committee.

Powell said he used State Department counterpart funds as do other members of Congress.

Navy Spurs Polaris Base Needs Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy is enlarging its fleet of tender ships and floating drydocks to provide more floating overseas bases for its Polaris submarines.

Included in the new shipbuilding program submitted to Congress in the defense budget is a request for funds to construct a fifth tender and to convert another floating drydock capable of servicing the larger, 425-foot long Polaris submarines.

Details were disclosed in testimony Wednesday before the House Armed Services Committee by Vice Adm. Charles D. Griffin, deputy chief of naval operations for fleet readiness.

For the planned fleet of 41 Polaris submarines, the Navy estimates it will need six tender ships with accompanying craft. Two tender ships are now in commission. A third was launched last month and a fourth is under construction.

In his testimony, Griffin explained the Navy's need for a fifth ship and the conversion of another drydock.

When the concept of the Polaris submarine-missile system was first presented, it was argued that such a system would not need foreign bases. This view still is expressed. But the original thought has been modified to the program of floating bases which can provide routine supply and minor repair needs, and a change in crews without a submarine having to make the long cruise to the United States and then back to its station at sea.

Phone Head Sees Ohio Growth Lag

CLEVELAND — A business climate which will encourage the investment of large amounts of new capital, with adequate earnings to support it, is the key to industrial prosperity for Ohio, according to Ohio Bell's new president, Frederick R. Eckley, in the company's 1962 annual report published today.

"Ohio has not been growing industrially as fast as in the past, or as fast as the country as a whole," he said.

The report points to several successive years of record-high Ohio Bell expansion programs that have been required to keep pace with the increasingly complex communications needs of the state. The 1962 expenditure for this purpose was $87,274,000, and the 1963 program announced recently will exceed $88,000,000.

Eckley expressed concern that the company's rate of earnings on the value of its property continues to be well below the level contemplated by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio in its 1958 rate order.

Operating revenues during 1962 were up 5.58 per cent over 1961, and operating expenses were up 5.59 per cent over the previous year.

2 Bills To Speed College Building Plan Face Action

CHARLESTON (AP) — Two bills to speed building programs at West Virginia's state - supported universities and colleges came up for amendment action in the House today.

One of the bills applies to the state's whole system of higher education. The other, passed previously by the Senate, would authorize issuance of up to $5.7 million worth of revenue bonds to finance capital improvements at Marshall University in Huntington.

Yesterday the House passed 86-10 and sent to the Senate a proposed state wages-and-hours law.

Businesses covered by the bill would be required to pay a wage of at least 75 cents an hour, with time-and-a-half for work in excess of 54 hours a week.

The bill would not apply to any business with less than 12 employes or to any employers or employes subject to federal wages-and-hours laws.

Among others excluded from coverage are farm workers, professional and administrative personnel, outside salesmen and hospital, restaurant, hotel and motel employes.

The Senate passed 22-9 a bill to set a permanent rate of 5¾ per cent for the tax on pari-mutuel betting at the state's four horse race tracks. The tax, now 6 per cent, would drop to 5 per cent after June 30 without legislation.

The bill as passed by the Senate includes special tax-relief provisions for Wheeling Downs, closed by two fires late last year which destroyed the grandstand and part of the clubhouse. The provisions are intended to help the track resume racing.

The measure now goes back to the House, which earlier had passed a version to continue the present 6-per-cent tax rate permanently. The House version made no concessions for Wheeling Downs.

Wellsville Jaycees Propose Public Program On Safari

A proposal to present a public program on an African safari as a ways and means project was heard by the Wellsville Jaycee Board of Directors at a meeting Wednesday night at the home of the president, Nunzio S. Lombardozzi, 1223 Clover St.

Forest Buchanan, principal of Springfield Local High School in Mahoning County, suggested the Jaycees sponsor his appearance with a film and talk on his hunting trip in Northern Tanganyika.

The proposal will be discussed further at a membership meeting Monday night at 7:30 at the Jaycee Hall on 11th St.

Eight members attended. A discussion also was held on the possibility of rescheduling the annual basketball tournament. It now is set for April 1-6 at the Beacom Memorial Auditorium. Jack Call, Dick Kevan and Eugene Ceniviva are the chairmen. This proposal also will be presented Monday night.

The Jaycees will aid in the tabulation of funds in the Heart Sunday Drive in Wellsville.

Wellsville has received the District 6 gavel and will pass it on to Minerva next week.

Jerry Russell was appointed to attend the next meeting of the Citizens Scholarship Foundation of the East Liverpool Area to gather more information about the group.

Bob Young, District 6 vice president, will be guest speaker Monday night. A nominating committee will be appointed. Perry Mason will be the Speak-Up Jaycee contestant.

A report will be heard on the first annual Bosses Night dinner. Several other committee reports will be heard.

THE NIGHT CHURCHILL ALMOST GAVE UP THE WAR

Relive with author Stanley Lowell the tense hours of decision when Winston Churchill faced the prospect of surrender or complete destruction of England to Hitler's armies.

The outcome of that decision is history, but from it comes a little-known story that stands as a tribute to one man's courage.

Talks Continue In New York's Paper Blackout

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore W. Kheel, Mayor Robert F. Wagner's chief adviser in efforts to end the 76-day-old newspaper blackout, continues meeting with subcommittees of publishers and representatives of nonstriking unions today.

The Photoengravers Union, one of the nine unions whose members have been idled by the printers' strike against four of the city's nine major newspapers, was first on today's agenda.

Subcommittees of the publishers and of five craft unions met with Kheel for five hours Wednesday.

Kheel said the sessions dealt with the working hours for the pressmen, stereotypers, mailers, deliverers and paper handlers.

Wagner, who has been seeking to end the newspaper blackout for almost a month, was out of the city Wednesday.

The talks did not include striking Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union, because the local's demand for a shorter work week already had been made plain to the publishers and the mediators.

Richman told police Millward's car apparently drifted downgrade from a parking place. Millward told officers he parked his car at 8:30, setting the emergency brake and turning the front wheels toward the curb.

Senator Denies Racial Prejudice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell has accused Sen. John J. Williams of racial bias. But Williams says how government money is spent—not race—is the issue in his attack on the Negro congressman.

Powell accused Williams, R-Del., at a news conference Wednesday of following "the Hitler concept" in purchasing property that the New York Democrat said is under a restriction limiting resale to "Aryans." Asked if he felt there was a racial motive to Williams' criticism, Powell declared emphatically, "yes."

The senator swung back at Powell Wednesday night. "I never have and never will refer to any man's race, religion or nationality in discussing a case on the Senate floor or off it," Williams told a newsman.

"I do intend to see that anyone, whether a member of Congress or not, gives a proper accounting of how government money is spent," he said. "We're going to keep right on the issue and will not be diverted."

In his session with newsmen, Powell said Williams has voted consistently against civil rights. He also distributed an excerpt from a property deed to a house Powell said Williams bought in 1952 in Rehobeth Beach, Del.

According to the excerpt, the deed contained a restriction against the sale or leasing of the property "to any person not of the Aryan (Nordic) race."

Reached Wednesday night at his home, Williams said he bought the property in 1952, still lives there and has no intention of leaving. He said he has never examined the deed and has no idea if it contains a restriction.

But even if it does, Williams said, it would have no effect because the Supreme Court has outlawed such provisions.

The battle began Feb. 5 when Williams charged in a Senate speech that the government was "shoveling out" money for activities sponsored or promoted by Powell. He also accused Powell of income tax delinquency and criticized him for using State Department funds for a European trip last summer with two women staff members.

Powell, who was in Puerto Rico when Williams leveled his blast, fired back Wednesday before a battery of newsmen. He said a Williams charge that the Housing and Home Finance Administration had lent Powell or groups associated with him $10.8 million for three housing projects was incorrect.

The HHA deals in mortage insurance, not in loans, Powell said, and the transactions Williams referred to were handled by a foundation he started in honor of his father. He said he got out of the foundation a year ago.

"I have always paid my taxes promptly," said Powell. The years in question, he said, are the subject of pending court action and it cannot be determined what, if anything, he owes until the court decides.

As for last summer's trip—according to Williams a "European vacation for Mr. Powell and two lady friends where he attended all the night spots of the European capitals"—Powell said the women with him were staff members of his House Education Committee.

Navy Spurs Polaris Base Needs Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy is enlarging its fleet of tender ships and floating drydocks to provide more floating overseas bases for its Polaris submarines.

Included in the new shipbuilding program submitted to Congress in the defense budget is a request for funds to construct a fifth tender and to convert another floating drydock capable of servicing the larger, 425-foot long Polaris submarines.

Details were disclosed in testimony Wednesday before the House Armed Services Committee by Vice Adm. Charles D. Griffin, deputy chief of naval operations for fleet readiness.

For the planned fleet of 41 Polaris submarines, the Navy estimates it will need six tender ships with accompanying craft. Two tender ships are now in commission. A third was launched last month and a fourth is under construction.

In his testimony, Griffin explained the Navy's need for a fifth ship and the conversion of another drydock.

When the concept of the Polaris submarine-missile system was first presented, it was argued that such a system would not need foreign bases. This view still is expressed. But the original thought has been modified to the program of floating bases which can provide routine supply and minor repair needs, and a change in crews without a submarine having to make the long cruise to the United States and then back to its station at sea.

Phone Head Sees Ohio Growth Lag

CLEVELAND — A business climate which will encourage the investment of large amounts of new capital, with adequate earnings to support it, is the key to industrial prosperity for Ohio, according to Ohio Bell's new president, Frederick R. Eckley, in the company's 1962 annual report published today.

"Ohio has not been growing industrially as fast as in the past, or as fast as the country as a whole," he said.

The report points to several successive years of record-high Ohio Bell expansion programs that have been required to keep pace with the increasingly complex communications needs of the state. The 1962 expenditure for this purpose was $87,274,000, and the 1963 program announced recently will exceed $88,000,000.

Eckley expressed concern that the company's rate of earnings on the value of its property continues to be well below the level contemplated by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio in its 1958 rate order.

Operating revenues during 1962 were up 5.58 per cent over 1961, and operating expenses were up 5.59 per cent over the previous year.

2 Bills To Speed College Building Plan Face Action

CHARLESTON (AP) — Two bills to speed building programs at West Virginia's state - supported universities and colleges came up for amendment action in the House today.

One of the bills applies to the state's whole system of higher education. The other, passed previously by the Senate, would authorize issuance of up to $5.7 million worth of revenue bonds to finance capital improvements at Marshall University in Huntington.

Yesterday the House passed 86-10 and sent to the Senate a proposed state wages-and-hours law.

Businesses covered by the bill would be required to pay a wage of at least 75 cents an hour, with time-and-a-half for work in excess of 54 hours a week.

The bill would not apply to any business with less than 12 employes or to any employers or employes subject to federal wages-and-hours laws.

Among others excluded from coverage are farm workers, professional and administrative personnel, outside salesmen and hospital, restaurant, hotel and motel employes.

The Senate passed 22-9 a bill to set a permanent rate of 5¾ per cent for the tax on pari-mutuel betting at the state's four horse race tracks. The tax, now 6 per cent, would drop to 5 per cent after June 30 without legislation.

The bill as passed by the Senate includes special tax-relief provisions for Wheeling Downs, closed by two fires late last year which destroyed the grandstand and part of the clubhouse. The provisions are intended to help the track resume racing.

The measure now goes back to the House, which earlier had passed a version to continue the present 6-per-cent tax rate permanently. The House version made no concessions for Wheeling Downs.

Wellsville Jaycees Propose Public Program On Safari

A proposal to present a public program on an African safari as a ways and means project was heard by the Wellsville Jaycee Board of Directors at a meeting Wednesday night at the home of the president, Nunzio S. Lombardozzi, 1223 Clover St.

The proposal will be discussed further at a membership meeting Monday night at 7:30 at the Jaycee Hall on 11th St.

Eight members attended. A discussion also was held on the possibility of rescheduling the annual basketball tournament. It now is set for April 1-6 at the Beacom Memorial Auditorium. Jack Call, Dick Kevan and Eugene Ceniviva are the chairmen. This proposal also will be presented Monday night.

The Jaycees will aid in the tabulation of funds in the Heart Sunday Drive in Wellsville.

Wellsville has received the District 6 gavel and will pass it on to Minerva next week.

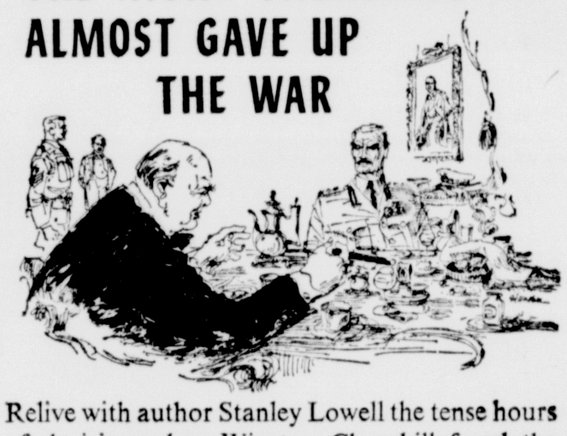

Jerry Russell was appointed to attend the next meeting of the Citizens Scholarship Foundation of the East Liverpool Area to gather more information about the group.

Bob Young, District 6 vice president, will be guest speaker Monday night. A nominating committee will be appointed. Perry Mason will be the Speak-Up Jaycee contestant.

A report will be heard on the first annual Bosses Night dinner. Several other committee reports will be heard.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: You recently said in your column you have never heard of dimples being produced surgically and that you got yours for a birthday present.

Well, yours may have been a gift but some women have to pay for theirs.

The Orientals consider the dimple a symbol of good luck. The poets of ancient China frequently associated this anatomical endowment with a pretty and happy face. The dimpled wife, they believed, brought contentment and good fortune to the family.

I volunteer this information because I know you want to give your readers correct advice.—SINGAPORE.

Dear Singapore: Thank you for the fine letter. I found the information fascinating. Dimples are rather nice to receive as a gift — but I certainly wouldn't go out and buy 'em.

Envies Rich Widow

Dear Ann: The whining widow who wrote to you made me sick. She sits there with money in the bank, fat insurance policies, a paid-for home, solicitous relatives, and all she has to complain about is loneliness.

It's the divorcee, not the widow, who knows what real heartache is. How would she like my routine? I work at a newspaper from 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. After work I return to my dreary, shabily furnished apartment to scrub, cook, wash, iron and mend clothes. I attend school conferences, listen to the children's problems, discipline, pray for and worry about three youngsters who are growing up without a father.

Occasionally I accept a date thinking "this one will be different." But it never is. I always end up feeling degraded because most men think a divorcee will say yes to anything — as payment for a dinner or some dull conversation.

So please tell the widow who signed herself "Alone" that divorcees are alone, too, but that they have a myriad of added problems which widows don't have.—TREADMILL.

Dear Treadmill: Your letter has some merit but not every widow has a fat insurance policy, money in the bank and a paid-for home. And not every divorcee is living in a shabby apartment. Sometimes it's the alimony-busted husbands who wind up in a rented room with naked light bulbs.

One thing is certain, however — the widow didn't have a choice.

How To Spot A Phony

Dear Ann: My problem is an older man. I'm 16 and Brad is 29. His parents think I'm 20 and my parents think he is 22. He's madly in love with me but I'm not in love with him. The trouble is I don't have the heart to break up with him.

Brad knows how I feel but he doesn't care. He says love will come later. He has spent more than $200 on me in the last two months and his parents have bought me gifts, too.

They think I'm the smartest and loveliest girl he has ever gone with. He wants to marry me next year when I graduate from high school.

Please don't think Brad is going with me for sex. I am very moral. Tell me what to do.—MISS NEWARK.

Dear Miss Newark: People often ask me how I spot phony letters. Well, here is how I spotted yours.

No parent can possibly think a 20-year-old who is still in high school is "the smartest girl he ever went with." Now why don't you go do your homework?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Russell Smith, 4-H supervisor for Northeast Ohio, will be guest speaker, discussing "The Merits to be Gained from 4-H Work." The program will include a film, group singing, presentation of honor club awards and a candlelighting service with the Junior Leadership 4-H Group in charge.

All 4-H members, advisors and parents are invited, Myers said.

A discussion on parliamentary procedure will be held when the Columbiana County Junior leadership 4-H Club meets tonight at 8 at the St. George Parish Hall in Lisbon.

Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture, said other monthly business will be transacted. Fred Hippely of Salem R. D. 3, president, will preside.

David and Tom Persohn presented a demonstration on safety while ice skating when the Liverpool Township Hilltoppers 4-H Club met Monday night with Teddy Owens of Shadyside Ave.

The 10 club members present voted to send a "get-well" note to Allen Pethel, who is ill.

Diana Persohn, Debbie Galeno and Roland Galeno will present another safety demonstration when the club meets March 4 at the Galeno home on the Campground Rd.

Roll call will be to composers of songs.

Man Dies In Fire

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 39-year-old man died Wednesday night in a fire at an East Side home. Firemen said they found the body of Wilbert Whitney in the smoke-filled living room of a 2½-story frame house where he had been visiting a friend. The coroner was to rule on the cause of death.

Movie Doors Fail To Open For Negroes

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Two meetings between city officials and a lawyer for a movie house have failed to open the theater doors to Negroes.

But the doors of the city jail have opened again to admit 74 anti-segregation pickets, arrested Wednesday night in the sixth straight day of demonstrations at the Northwood Theater.

More than 400 students—most of them Negroes from nearby Morgan State College — have been jailed since the demonstrations began last Friday.

A spokesman for the Civic Interest Group, a local civil rights organization responsible for the demonstrations, said the picketing will continue until the theater is opened to the general public.

"And we consider ourselves part of the general public," he said.

Since the first hearing in Municipal Court Saturday, bail per student has risen progressively to $600. And totals more than $160,000.

Students arrested have been charged with disorderly conduct or trespassing. All have asked for jury trials. The jail is overcrowded.

Mayor Philip H. Goodman called two meetings Wednesday to try to avert further demonstrations and arrests. Both meetings failed.

As city officials met with the theater's lawyer and CIG leaders in City Hall, pickets marched outside.

Slick Road Blamed For Crash In Hancock

NEW CUMBERLAND — Hazardous road conditions were blamed for an accident Wednesday night on Route 2, about a mile and a half south, in which the cars of two New Cumberland motorists were damaged.

The sheriff's office said a 1953 northbound sedan driven by John R. Wright, 29, of Chester St. slid into a southbound auto operated by Ed E. Kirkpatrick, 59, of New Cumberland.

Deputies estimated damage at approximately $150 to each car. There were no injuries, they said.

Ohio Man Is Cleared In Stabbing Of Wife

Llamas now returns to Lima State Hospital, which returned him here when it found him well enough to stand trial after he spend nearly three years there. When officially certified as sane, the non-English - speaking immigrant can go free.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: You recently said in your column you have never heard of dimples being produced surgically and that you got yours for a birthday present.

Well, yours may have been a gift but some women have to pay for theirs.

The Orientals consider the dimple a symbol of good luck. The poets of ancient China frequently associated this anatomical endowment with a pretty and happy face. The dimpled wife, they believed, brought contentment and good fortune to the family.

Many Malayan Chinese women insist that plastic surgeons create dimples in their faces. It has been done with considerable success.

I volunteer this information because I know you want to give your readers correct advice.—SINGAPORE.

Dear Singapore: Thank you for the fine letter. I found the information fascinating. Dimples are rather nice to receive as a gift — but I certainly wouldn't go out and buy 'em.

Envies Rich Widow

Dear Ann: The whining widow who wrote to you made me sick. She sits there with money in the bank, fat insurance policies, a paid-for home, solicitous relatives, and all she has to complain about is loneliness.

It's the divorcee, not the widow, who knows what real heartache is. How would she like my routine? I work at a newspaper from 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. After work I return to my dreary, shabily furnished apartment to scrub, cook, wash, iron and mend clothes. I attend school conferences, listen to the children's problems, discipline, pray for and worry about three youngsters who are growing up without a father.

Occasionally I accept a date thinking "this one will be different." But it never is. I always end up feeling degraded because most men think a divorcee will say yes to anything — as payment for a dinner or some dull conversation.

So please tell the widow who signed herself "Alone" that divorcees are alone, too, but that they have a myriad of added problems which widows don't have.—TREADMILL.

Dear Treadmill: Your letter has some merit but not every widow has a fat insurance policy, money in the bank and a paid-for home. And not every divorcee is living in a shabby apartment. Sometimes it's the alimony-busted husbands who wind up in a rented room with naked light bulbs.

One thing is certain, however — the widow didn't have a choice.

How To Spot A Phony

Dear Ann: My problem is an older man. I'm 16 and Brad is 29. His parents think I'm 20 and my parents think he is 22. He's madly in love with me but I'm not in love with him. The trouble is I don't have the heart to break up with him.

Brad knows how I feel but he doesn't care. He says love will come later. He has spent more than $206 on me in the last two months and his parents have bought me gifts, too.

They think I'm the smartest and loveliest girl he has ever gone with. He wants to marry me next year when I graduate from high school.

Please don't think Brad is going with me for sex. I am very moral. Tell me what to do.—MISS NEWARK.

Dear Miss Newark: People often ask me how I spot phony letters. Well, here is how I spotted yours.

No parent can possibly think a 20-year-old who is still in high school is "the smartest girl he ever went with." Now why don't you go do your homework?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ron Williams Is 'Mr. Basketball' In Weirton

ELHS In Season's Finale

In Weirton, Ron Williams is "Mr. Basketball." Only a junior, the 6-foot-3 standout is being heralded as the best basketball player in West Virginia.

The East Liverpool Potters will get a good look at him Friday night when they invade Weirton for their final game of the 1962-63 season.

Friday's game will be at the Community Center. An earlier starting time finds the reserve contest opening at 6:30, with the varsity game about 8 p.m.

Williams, who has led his team to a 13-5 record, is practically a one-man show. Observers say there isn't anything he can't do on a basketball court.

The contest could develop into a scoring duel between Williams and the Potters' standout, Dean Cline, who will carry an average of almost 22 points per game into Friday's encounter.

Weirton will have a slight height advantage, with four of the five starters over the 6-foot mark. Three regulars are juniors.

The two front-line replacements are Bill Whitaker and Tom Durkin, 6-foot-2. Both are juniors.

Sectional Drawings At Toronto Monday

Drawings for the Class "AA" Eastern Sectional tournament will be held Monday at 6 p.m. at the Blue Danube Restaurant in Toronto. The eliminations will be held at Toronto this year. Participating will be East Liverpool, Wellsville, Toronto, Jefferson Union, Steubenville Big Red, Steubenville Central and Wintersville.

Cincinnati Faces MVC Foe Tonight

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Bearcats, with one string ended, will try to keep another, more important streak going tonight against North Texas State.

The Bearcats' 37-game winning string came to an abrupt, painful halt in Wichita Saturday but their quest of an unprecedented third straight NCAA title is still very, very active.

They could take a major step in that quest by beating North Texas tonight, which would secure Cincinnati its sixth straight Missouri Valley Conference title and a spot in the NCAA regionals, first step on the long road to the championships.

The Bearcats, still ranked first in the nation, take a 19-1 mark into the game while North Texas, at 10-11, is enjoying its best season since joining the league in 1957. Cincinnati won a previous meeting 75-58 at North Texas earlier this season.

Another important game sends Notre Dame against 10th ranked New York University, already named for an NCAA open berth, at Madison Square Garden. NYU has won nine in a row and is 13-2 over-all.

Penn State and Pittsburgh, vying for an NCAA spot, each came a-cropper Wednesday night as they headed into a showdown at Pittsburgh Saturday. Temple, now 14-6, upset Pitt 77-71 at Philadelphia while West Virginia held off a Penn State rally 83-82 on the Nittany Lions' home grounds.

Springfield upset Holy Cross 74-72 at Worcester, Mass., the Crusaders' fourth straight loss after winning 10 straight, homestanding Providence, already entered in the NIT, just held off visiting Assumption 68-67, Davidson blasted Wake Forest 90-75 at Charlotte, and Nick Werkman, the nation's leading major college scorer, scored 32 points in Seton Hall's 92-61 victory over St. Peter's.

In some of the other major games, Detroit edged Canisius 55-54, Marquette nipped Louisville 77-76, North Carolina beat Virginia 85-73, Rutgers defeated Colgate 93-82, LaSalle turned back Duquesne 73-69, Georgetown blasted Lafayette 89-58 and New Hampshire edged Vermont 97-94 in overtime.

Mays Signs For $100,000

Joins Elite Group Of 3 Other Stars

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"This Willie Mays, he does everything."

And gets rewarded accordingly.

San Francisco Manager Al Darc paid the compliment and the National League champion Giants will be paying Mays approximately $100,000 for the 1963 season, a plateau reached before by only Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio and Stan Musial.

Mays agreed to terms Wednesday for an estimated increase of $10,000 following a season in which he led the National League in homers with 49 and drove in 141 runs while batting .304.

While Mays stepped into the Giants' fold, World Series opponent Ralph Terry—the pitching hero who shut out San Francisco 1-0 in the deciding game of the Series—agreed to terms with the world champion New York Yankees.

Boston Trips Detroit For 7th Straight

By The Associated Press

If the Detroit Pistons don't make the National Basketball Association playoffs this season they can point the finger at the Boston Celtics.

The champion Celtics beat the Pistons Wednesday night for the seventh straight time, this time 117-113.

The defeat was particularly hard to take for the Pistons. Playing on their home court they blew an 18-point edge and saw their lead over San Francisco in the battle for the third and last playoff spot in the Western Division reduced to a thin .004.

Syracuse whipped Cincinnati 128-109 in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday and just about sewed up a second-place finish in the Eastern Division. Cincinnati, Syracuse's closest pursuer, is four games back with 14 games to play.

Rizzuto's Hand Mangled Repairing Snow Machine

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Well wishes and light advice are snowballing for hospitalized Phil Rizzuto, whose right hand is bandaged as big as a boxing glove after his encounter with the wrong end of a snow-blowing machine.

The former New York Yankee baseball star had his hand mangled when he tried to clear the clogged machine he was using on his front walk. But Rizzuto cheerfully tells his visitors at St. Elizabeth Hospital:

"It's better to make a joke out of it. Every time I think of it I want to jump 6 feet in the air."

The 45-year-old former shortstop, who now shares broadcasting duties for the Yankees, said he was using the machine for about the third time, clearing his walk Tuesday night, when the wet snow and slush clogged it.

"Like a meathead, I stuck my hand in to clear out the snow. "I didn't think the blades went that far back."

The blades of the running machine broke the bones in eight places, and crushed two of his fingers. He won't have normal use of the hand for about a year.

Another Sentenced In Basketball Bribe

Joseph Green, a 27-year-old New Yorker, was sentenced Wednesday to 6 to 7 years by State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Sarafite. Green had pleaded guilty to two counts of bribery involving payment of $2,000 to Fred Portney, a Columbia University player, to shave points in two games during the 1960-'61 season.

Hutchinson Has Idea On Front Line

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds start spring training today and Manager Fred Hutchinson says he's already got an idea who will start the regular season April 8 at Crosley Field.

"I'm not going to stand here and say that every position on this club is wide open," said Hutchinson.

"I've got a lineup. I even have in mind the 28 men we'll open the season with.

"But that doesn't mean it can't be changed. It's up to the other guys to knock the regulars out of their jobs on this nine. That's what we'll be looking for in spring training, men who might push someone else out of a job."

Asked if he would mind naming his lineup, Hutch shook his head.

Ron Williams Is 'Mr. Basketball' In Weirton

ELHS In Season's Finale

In Weirton, Ron Williams is "Mr. Basketball." Only a junior, the 6-foot-3 standout is being heralded as the best basketball player in West Virginia.

The East Liverpool Potters will get a good look at him Friday night when they invade Weirton for their final game of the 1962-63 season.

Friday's game will be at the Community Center. An earlier starting time finds the reserve contest opening at 6:30, with the varsity game about 8 p.m.

Williams, who has led his team to a 13-5 record, is practically a one-man show. Observers say there isn't anything he can't do on a basketball court.

Williams is averaging 30 points per game, with 515 in 18 contests. His high for the season was 46, a new school record, against Toronto.

If Williams isn't scoring inside on his opponents, he is pushing up long jump shots with uncanny accuracy.

The contest could develop into a scoring duel between Williams and the Potters' standout, Dean Cline, who will carry an average of almost 22 points per game into Friday's encounter.

Weirton will have a slight height advantage, with four of the five starters over the 6-foot mark. Three regulars are juniors.

Joining Williams in the starting lineup will be Ted Tomasovich, 6-foot-2 junior, who is the second leading scorer on the squad.

George Wilson, 6-foot-1 senior, is a three-year regular, while the guards will be Jim Helba, 6-foot-1 senior letterman, and Ed Harvard, 5-foot-8 junior.

The two front-line replacements are Bill Whitaker and Tom Durkin, 6-foot-2. Both are juniors.

Weirton's five defeats this season have come at the hands of Wheeling Central twice, Bellaire, Parkersburg and Wheeling.

Sectional Drawings At Toronto Monday

Drawings for the Class "AA" Eastern Sectional tournament will be held Monday at 6 p.m. at the Blue Danube Restaurant in Toronto. The eliminations will be held at Toronto this year. Participating will be East Liverpool, Wellsville, Toronto, Jefferson Union, Steubenville Big Red, Steubenville Central and Wintersville.

Cincinnati Faces MVC Foe Tonight

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Bearcats, with one string ended, will try to keep another, more important streak going tonight against North Texas State.

The Bearcats' 37-game winning string came to an abrupt, painful halt in Wichita Saturday but their quest of an unprecedented third straight NCAA title is still very, very active.

They could take a major step in that quest by beating North Texas tonight, which would secure Cincinnati its sixth straight Missouri Valley Conference title and a spot in the NCAA regionals, first step on the long road to the championships.

The Bearcats, still ranked first in the nation, take a 19-1 mark into the game while North Texas, at 10-11, is enjoying its best season since joining the league in 1957. Cincinnati won a previous meeting 75-58 at North Texas earlier this season.

Another important game sends Notre Dame against 10th ranked New York University, already named for an NCAA open berth, at Madison Square Garden. NYU has won nine in a row and is 13-2 over-all.

Penn State and Pittsburgh, vying for an NCAA spot, each came a-cropper Wednesday night as they headed into a showdown at Pittsburgh Saturday. Temple, now 14-6, upset Pitt 77-71 at Philadelphia while West Virginia held off a Penn State rally 83-82 on the Nittany Lions' home grounds.

Springfield upset Holy Cross 74-72 at Worcester, Mass., the Crusaders' fourth straight loss after winning 10 straight, homestanding Providence, already entered in the NIT, just held off visiting Assumption 68-67, Davidson blasted Wake Forest 90-75 at Charlotte, and Nick Werkman, the nation's leading major college scorer, scored 32 points in Seton Hall's 92-61 victory over St. Peter's.

In some of the other major games, Detroit edged Canisius 55-54, Marquette nipped Louisville 77-76, North Carolina beat Virginia 85-73, Rutgers defeated Colgate 93-82, LaSalle turned back Duquesne 73-69, Georgetown blasted Lafayette 89-58 and New Hampshire edged Vermont 97-94 in overtime.

Mays Signs For $100,000

Joins Elite Group Of 3 Other Stars

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"This Willie Mays, he does everything."

And gets rewarded accordingly.

San Francisco Manager Al Darc paid the compliment and the National League champion Giants will be paying Mays approximately $100,000 for the 1963 season, a plateau reached before by only Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio and Stan Musial.

Mays agreed to terms Wednesday for an estimated increase of $10,000 following a season in which he led the National League in homers with 49 and drove in 141 runs while batting .304.

While Mays stepped into the Giants' fold, World Series opponent Ralph Terry—the pitching hero who shut out San Francisco 1-0 in the deciding game of the Series—agreed to terms with the world champion New York Yankees.

The 27-year-old right-hander posted a 23-12 record last season and received a $12,000 raise to $35,000.

Boston Trips Detroit For 7th Straight

By The Associated Press

If the Detroit Pistons don't make the National Basketball Association playoffs this season they can point the finger at the Boston Celtics.

The champion Celtics beat the Pistons Wednesday night for the seventh straight time, this time 117-113.

The defeat was particularly hard to take for the Pistons. Playing on their home court they blew an 18-point edge and saw their lead over San Francisco in the battle for the third and last playoff spot in the Western Division reduced to a thin .004.

Syracuse whipped Cincinnati 128-109 in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday and just about sewed up a second-place finish in the Eastern Division. Cincinnati, Syracuse's closest pursuer, is four games back with 14 games to play.

Maple Leafs Regain Second Place In NHL

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs have regained second place in the National Hockey League and are right back in the thick of the race.

The Leafs edged Montreal 2-1 Wednesday night and dropped the Canadiens into third place. Toronto is one point ahead of Montreal and trails the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks by only three points.

In the only other game of the night, the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers, battling for fifth place, played a 3-3 tie.

Tribe Pitchers, Catchers Launch Training Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians open their 17th consecutive spring training camp here today with 18 pitchers and four catchers scheduled to report. The remainder of the squad is due here March 1.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts says he wants his players to regain the pride they apparently lost in the Tribe's late-season plunge to sixth place last year and he also wants the Indians to become better known to the fans.

General Manager Gabe Paul announced Wednesday that pitchers Bob Allen and Wilfred (Sonny) Siebert had signed their 1963 contracts and veteran pitchers Jim Perry and Barry Latman had agreed to terms but have not signed.

Strike Zone May Hurt Giants, Al Dark Claims

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Baseball's expanded strike zone may hurt the San Francisco Gaints, says Manager Alvin Dark.

Dark's reasoning is unusual among the general chorus proclaiming the change as either beneficial to pitchers or making no difference.

He told a pre-spring training news conference Wednesday that he thinks National League umpires will not be able to crouch as low as previously since the top of the strike zone is now higher.

"It's the way they stand that raises or lowers the strike zone" said Dark. "If they're up higher it may pull the strike zone up.

"It'll hurt us if they pull it up, because I like our pitchers to keep the ball low. I don't want our pitchers getting up higher."

He quickly added that it would hurt other teams as well—"All the good ball clubs I've been on were built around low-ball pitchers."

National League umpires traditionally crouch lower than their American League counterparts, which, says Dark, explains why the National League strike zone is considered by players to be slightly lower than the American.

The higher zone, he believes, will force National League umpires to employ a stance more like American Leaguers.

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs have regained second place in the National Hockey League and are right back in the thick of the race.

The Leafs edged Montreal 2-1 Wednesday night and dropped the Canadiens into third place. Toronto is one point ahead of Montreal and trails the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks by only three points.

In the only other game of the night, the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers, battling for fifth place, played a 3-3 tie.

Tribe Pitchers, Catchers Launch Training Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians open their 17th consecutive spring training camp here today with 18 pitchers and four catchers scheduled to report. The remainder of the squad is due here March 1.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts says he wants his players to regain the pride they apparently lost in the Tribe's late-season plunge to sixth place last year and he also wants the Indians to become better known to the fans.

General Manager Gabe Paul announced Wednesday that pitchers Bob Allen and Wilfred (Sonny) Siebert had signed their 1963 contracts and veteran pitchers Jim Perry and Barry Latman had agreed to terms but have not signed.

Strike Zone May Hurt Giants, Al Dark Claims

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Baseball's expanded strike zone may hurt the San Francisco Gaints, says Manager Alvin Dark.

Dark's reasoning is unusual among the general chorus proclaiming the change as either beneficial to pitchers or making no difference.

He told a pre-spring training news conference Wednesday that he thinks National League umpires will not be able to crouch as low as previously since the top of the strike zone is now higher.

"It's the way they stand that raises or lowers the strike zone" said Dark. "If they're up higher it may pull the strike zone up.

"It'll hurt us if they pull it up, because I like our pitchers to keep the ball low. I don't want our pitchers getting up higher."

He quickly added that it would hurt other teams as well—"All the good ball clubs I've been on were built around low-ball pitchers."

National League umpires traditionally crouch lower than their American League counterparts, which, says Dark, explains why the National League strike zone is considered by players to be slightly lower than the American.

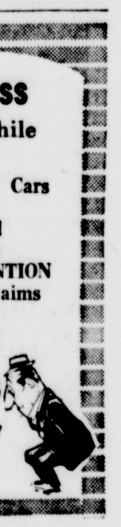

The higher zone, he believes, will force National League umpires to employ a stance more like American Leaguers.

Titan Missile Blows Up After Launching

VANDERBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force says a Titan 2 missile blew up shortly after launch Saturday because power lines between it and the ground failed to separate properly.

The missile, first of its kind launched from an underground silo, blew up at 18,000 feet over Vanderberg Test Site.

The Air Force Ballistic Systems Division said power feed lines were ripped out of the 300,000-pound missile, and resulting damage caused the Titan to blow itself up.

Titan Missile Blows Up After Launching

VANDERBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force says a Titan 2 missile blew up shortly after launch Saturday because power lines between it and the ground failed to separate properly.

The missile, first of its kind launched from an underground silo, blew up at 18,000 feet over Vanderberg Test Site.

The Air Force Ballistic Systems Division said power feed lines were ripped out of the 300,000-pound missile, and resulting damage caused the Titan to blow itself up.

Junior Editors Quiz on SEA GULLS

QUESTION: Do sea gulls make a nest?

ANSWER: Most of us have seen sea gulls, yet very few of us will ever see a sea gull's nest. This is not because gulls do not build nests, but because they choose inaccessible places for nests, where few enemies can come to rob them of their eggs. Most gulls love water, being very fond of a fish diet. They like to build in cracks on the rocky faces of cliffs fronting the sea. We illustrate a section of such a cliff in the St. Lawrence River country where Kittiwake sea gulls are shown nesting in company with another sea bird. Brunnich's Murre. Nests are made of seaweed. Why don't the eggs roll off? Their pointed shape helps, for if the egg does roll, this shape makes it roll in a circle.

There are many such favorite nesting places, where sea birds by the thousands return each year in the breeding season. Such a spot in the west is Isla Raza, an island belonging to Mexico and lying in the Gulf of California. Not all gulls, however, nest by the sea. California and Ring-billed Gulls, for example, like to nest in colonies along inland lakes; the Laughing Gull (lower picture) prefers marshes.

FOR YOU TO DO: For more on gulls' nesting habits, check the National Geographic Magazine of February, 1951, which tells about Isla Raza and June, 1948, for the article "Sea Bird Cities Off Audubon's Labrador."

Junior Editors Quiz on SEA GULLS

QUESTION: Do sea gulls make a nest?

ANSWER: Most of us have seen sea gulls, yet very few of us will ever see a sea gull's nest. This is not because gulls do not build nests, but because they choose inaccessible places for nests, where few enemies can come to rob them of their eggs. Most gulls love water, being very fond of a fish diet. They like to build in cracks on the rocky faces of cliffs fronting the sea. We illustrate a section of such a cliff in the St. Lawrence River country where Kittiwake sea gulls are shown nesting in company with another sea bird. Brunnich's Murre. Nests are made of seaweed. Why don't the eggs roll off? Their pointed shape helps, for if the egg does roll, this shape makes it roll in a circle.

There are many such favorite nesting places, where sea birds by the thousands return each year in the breeding season. Such a spot in the west is Isla Raza, an island belonging to Mexico and lying in the Gulf of California. Not all gulls, however, nest by the sea. California and Ring-billed Gulls, for example, like to nest in colonies along inland lakes; the Laughing Gull (lower picture) prefers marshes.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Gals: Once in a while . . . we housewives will splurge and buy a good drip dry dress. After we have worn it and it becomes soiled our problem is:

Shall we take the chance and wash it?

Or shall we splurge again and send it to the cleaners to keep it looking nice?

In the past I have ruined many drip dry dresses by washing them incorrectly.

I feel that today I can give you an honest answer to the correct ways of washing these good dresses. I have one dress that has been washed 17 times. It was guaranteed to be drip dry. Today it still looks perfect and has never been ironed.

BEFORE we continue, let me remind you what drip dry means. It means exactly what it says! It will drip dry! Did you know that anything will drip dry?

A dish will drip dry! An automobile will drip dry. Our hair would even drip dry if we did not towel dry it, or use the dryer when we pin it up! Drip dry means exactly what it says. It will drip dry!

Back to the dress:

The best place to wash this type of dress is in the bath tub. I have found that you can fill the bath tub with about two inches of lukewarm water. (Ladies, when we say lukewarm, that means barely warm and NOT cold NOR hot.)

Add some liquid detergent and mix it throughout the water. If you don't care to stoop over or to wet your hands, use your "plumber's friend" to mix the detergent into the water thoroughly. (You use your plumber's friend to unplug a drain.)

Now, if your dress is stained — such as with perspiration — soak the dress in absolutely cold tap water first.

LAY THE DRESS out full length in the bathtub in the solution. Let it remain no longer than eight minutes in the detergent water.

Take your vegetable brush or any hairbrush—and I have found a hairbrush is the best thing one can possibly use—and holding the shoulder of the dress in your left hand, take your brush and completely "brush" the dress from the top to the bottom of the garment.

Pay special attention to the neckline marks on the collar and lapels. These areas can be given a special scrubbing. Be sure to hold your dress under water when brushing these areas.

By holding the dress completely under water, as you brush . . . the particles of soil become loosened . . . and the soil gets into the water.

If you did not brush the dress while it was under water, I feel that the soil would be redeposited on other parts of the dress, causing yellowness, discoloration and redeposited soil.

Pull the drain plug from the bathtub.

TURN ON BOTH water faucets again to get lukewarm water, making your mixture with the two faucets.

Hold the dress by its neckline up under the water faucet for a moment so you will get a strong flush of water directly on the neckline which will rinse the fibers of the material thoroughly.

Rinsing is a complete necessity, when it comes to getting soap film and suds from clothing. Hold the dress up after rinsing most of the suds off so that it will drain.

While gathering the dress at the waistline in one hand, after the water has drained out of the tub, put the plug back in the tub and turn on the water faucets again to get more lukewarm water.

THIS MAY take two rinsings—according to how soiled your dress was—and if two rinsings are used. I have never found any type of material that could possibly be hurt by adding a half cup of vinegar to the last rinse water.

This removes soap film!

It also removes perspiration odors!

While your dress is under the last rinse water—approximately two inches deep—place a plastic coat hanger in the neck of the dress. Then and only then, while the dress is still under water, lift it up from the water by the neck of the coat hanger.

The weight of the water will pull all wear wrinkles out of the dress itself.

While it is still dripping wet, hang it on the shower nozzle. This will allow the water to drip in the tub and cause no further damage!

After the dress is hung up on the hook, take your fingers and gently move the skirt . . . in case it has stuck together. Most materials do stick, so carefully place the gathered or pleated skirt into its correct position.

After 17 washings of the dress which I described to you, it has never needed to be ironed!

WE HAVE gone into lots of detail to tell you how to do this. The entire procedure takes only about three minutes. So don't think it is a difficult operation.

Remember these things when washing expensive drip dry articles:

Rinse well, and . . . hang correctly.

And also remember anything will drip dry so don't let those instructions fool you. Even our kids will drip dry after a bath . . . if left to walk around naked for so long a time!

County Motor Club Supports Auto Inspection Legislation

The Columbiana County Motor Club today announced support of legislation before the General Assembly to require periodic inspection of all motor vehicles in Ohio.

H. Jud English, assistant manager of the East Liverpool AAA club, said the requirement would be a logical step in the effort to reduce highway tragedies, which last year killed 40,000 in the United States.

"The safest driver is a danger to himself, his passengers, other motorists and pedestrians if he is operating an unsafe vehicle," warned the AAA club official.

States having inspection laws report that as many as 50 per cent, and more, of the vehicles checked failed to meet all safety requirements.

The law is doubly vital to Ohio, English said, because several nearby states, including Pennsylvania and West Virginia, already require inspections and each year rule thousands of unsafe vehicles off their highways.

These vehicles, considered unsafe to repair, often are exported to states, including Ohio, which have no inspection system.

Three inspection bills currently are being considered by the House Highways Committee. They are sponsored by Rep. Don K. Cooper (R-Ashland) and Rep. Thomas J. Barrett (D-Mahoning); Rep. Bernice K. MacKenzie (D-Stark), and Rep. Archer E. Rilly, Jr. (R-Franklin) and Rep. David T. Matia (D-Cuyahoga). Each calls for inspections once or twice a year (to be determined by the superintendent of the State Highway Patrol) at private garages selected, licensed and rigidly supervised by the state.

The garage would charge a fee of $1.50 for each inspection. The motorist would select his own garage to make the repair or may do it himself. No charge would be made for re-inspection at the original inspection station.

During first hearings, an inspection law was urged by Columbus Municipal Judge Wilbur L. Shull; J. Russell Lloyd, executive secretary, Ohio State Automobile Association, state AAA club organization with which the Columbiana County Motor Club is affiliated, and representatives of the State Highway Patrol.

Hostesses will include Mr. and Mrs. Nash and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brandon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Calhoon of Hollidaysburg have returned home after visiting his mother, Mrs. Thomas Calhoon.

7 Autoists Fined In Toronto Court

Seven area motorists were fined at hearings Tuesday before Judge Charles Edwards at Toronto. Judge Edwards presided for Judge Augustus H. Evans Jr., who is on vacation.

William R. Durbin, 19, of 1110 Jennings Ave. was fined $5 and costs for driving a car without a muffler.

Tracy R. Thomas, 38, of Irondale R. D. 1 was fined $10 and costs for driving without an operator's permit.

Pete Voltz, 21, of Empire was fined $5 and costs for driving without a muffler and Harold Wright, 35, of Wellsville was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Clyde Putnam of Empire was fined $5 and costs for passing on a curve approach and Jack S. Ault, 28, of Empire was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Phillip Mackall, 32, of 85 Lincoln Ave., East Palestine, also was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Peak's Seen In Spending For Defense

But there are unknowns and uncertainties that could prevent any substantial downturn or even a leveling off in the years ahead.

Several key administration officials, including Budget Director Kermit Gordon, have been speaking optimistically of late. Pentagon authorities agree there is a basis for such optimism.

President Kennedy's proposed budget for the coming bookkeeping year contemplates record peacetime military spending of about $51 billion—more than half the total federal budget.

This is about $8 billion higher than the last military spending proposals submitted to Congress by President Dwight D. Eisenhower before he left the White House two years ago.

Much of the heavy increase grew from the Kennedy administration's urgent push to (1) build up the country's conventional land, sea and air forces and (2) speed construction of Polaris missile firing submarines and emplacement of quick-firing Minuteman intercontinental missiles in protected bases underground.

A good bit of this already has been done. And the new budget contains money to pay for the balance of such expensive programs as a 41-boat Polaris fleet and a force of new jet tanker planes to give B52 bombers greater range and endurance.

Jet propulsion for aircraft was invented by Sir Frank Whittle.
